

Gangster Escapes Assassination--Motorman Slain

GUNMEN FLEE BEHIND THICK SMOKE SCREEN

Attack Made While Released Suspect Is Under Protection of Police

Chicago—(P)—A new burst of gang gunfire blazed in the loop last night and two gunmen escaped behind a smoke screen after an unsuccessful attempt to assassinate Jake Zuta on his way home from the detective bureau with a police escort. Police fired several shots but missed the gunmen.

The latest outbreak of the hoodlums, flaunting the police war on gangsters declared after the killing of Jake Lingle, Tribune reporter, three weeks ago, took place on brilliantly lighted State street in the heart of the downtown district. It cost the life of a street car motorman and wounded another spectator struck by wild bullets.

Zuta, reputed vice chief of the "Bugs" Moran gang, appears to have been the target of the gangster gunplay, but it also was considered possible that Zuta himself was an ally of the gunmen putting his police escort "on the spot." Zuta and three companions disappeared during the fast and fierce pitched battle. Jake and a dozen other suspected Moran hoodlums had been under arrest in connection with the Lingle slaying. They had just obtained their freedom on bonds at the bureau. Appearing afraid to go home unprotected, Zuta pleaded with Lieut. George Barker, bureau squad leader who had taken part in the Moran mob round up, for a safe escort across town.

"Lieutenant, I'd never get home alive," he said.

"All right, get in my car," Barker replied.

The police officer got into the driver's seat. Zuta sat in the tonneau with Albert Bratz and Leon Bernstein. Solly Vision sat in front with Barker. Bratz, Vision and the Bernstein woman had been arrested with Zuta in police raids Monday. All were regarded as connected with the George (Bugs) Moran gang.

Lieut. Barker started from detective headquarters, driving north on State-st slowly. A sedan that had been behind swung from the rear and drew alongside.

ASSAILANT TALL MAN

A tall fellow in a tan suit and Panama hat opened the door of the sedan, and stepped to the running board. From a shoulder holster he drew a pistol. He aimed deliberately and sent a stream of bullets at the police machine.

Lieut. Barker jammed on the brakes and leaped to the street pistol in hand. The other car stopped also. By this time a second gunman was firing, leaning from a window of the automobile.

When the shooting began, Solly Vision scrambled over the seat into the tonneau, and huddled with Zuta, Bratz and the woman on the floor behind the scant protection afforded by the sides of the car.

Barker now was standing in the bright lighted street, exchanging shot for shot. Behind his automobile was a street car, unable to proceed because of the police machine. At the controls was the motorman, Lusader.

A bullet from the weapon of the tall man on the running board of the gunman's car struck Lusader in the neck. He died a few hours later. An aged night watchman, Olaf Svensen, was struck in the arm by a bullet.

Lieut. Barker stood firing until his ammunition was exhausted. He

NEWSPAPER HELPS FIND RELATIVES OF MISSING MAN

Less than an hour after the Appleton Post-Crescent appeared on the streets Tuesday afternoon carrying a story in which local police asked for information as to whereabouts of relatives of William Smith, a sister, Mrs. George Acher, 335 W. Prim received a letter from Baltimore in which he was asked to find Smith's relatives here.

leaped back into the machine just as the other automobile pulled away. The police car was only a few feet behind the other machine at State and Madison st. It was there that a smoke bomb was dropped by the machine in front.

Lieut. Barker, however, kept the machine in sight, and had nearly overtaken it at Wabash-ave and Madison-st when his own motor sputtered and died—its gasoline exhausted. The gunmen's car disappeared in traffic.

Meantime, Zuta and his companions had gone. The bullet marks in the police car indicated one of them may have been struck in the leg.

Lieut. Barker, criticized by Chief of Detectives Norton for providing the escort for Zuta, was suspended by Acting Commission of Police John H. Alcock, pending an inquiry.

BARKER CONSIDERED ACE

Lieut. Barker had been regarded as one of the aces of the detective bureau. Immediately after the Lingle killing when the police launched their war on the underworld he was one of six crack detectives bureau squad leaders chosen to lead the roundup of hoodlums.

Barker also headed the squad which raided the old Moran-Allo gang headquarters in N. Dearborn-st last December. In that raid, Barker seized records revealing the gambling syndicate operations of the Moran outfit and also disclosed papers showing the fake promotion schemes of the gang, such as banquets and balls which never took place.

This activity of Barker against the Moran gang, it was pointed out would add weight to the theory that Zuta may have been putting Barker "on the spot" as a reprisal for his activity.

Neither Zuta nor any of his companions appeared in police court today for their scheduled arraignment on disorderly conduct charges on which they obtained their release last night. Attorney Benjamin Cohen, representing Zuta and his pals, obtained a continuance until Saturday, saying: "If you know what happened on State-st. last night you can't blame my clients for not appearing this morning."

Judge Joseph McCarthy allowed the continuance over protests of the prosecutor who sought to have their bonds forfeited.

Rum Running Syndicate Uncovered In Cleveland

Cleveland—(P)—An alleged rum running syndicate that operated an overland route from Florida and a fleet of boats across Lake Erie to distribute liquor in midwestern cities stood revealed today with the release of secret federal indictments naming 11 men on conspiracy charges.

Principals of the ring, federal investigators said, were Daniel F. Coughlin of Pittsburgh and Cleveland, James Courtney, now in Canada, and John O'Boyle of Cleveland. The organization formerly was alleged to have been headed by "Handsome Larry" Davidson, whose extensive rum running activities have placed him in Atlanta penitentiary.

The syndicate, according to the indictments, operated a fleet of trucks from Fernandina, Fla., to McKeesport, Pa., where liquor was reshipped to Cleveland, Pittsburgh, Chicago and Woodlawn, Pa. Its other arm reached across Lake Erie between Canadian ports and points along the Erie (Ohio) county shore. Headquarters were in Cleveland, with Courtney directing the Canadian operations via long distance telephone, it was charged.

Coughlin surrendered late yesterday, pleaded not guilty and was released under $7,500 bond. Specifically he was charged with transporting 4,022 cases of whisky to McKeesport May 14.

Courtney skipped bond and fled to Canada last November after being arrested at a reputed "bootleggers' conference" here.

Most of the 55 overt acts charged consist of telephone conversations between Courtney from Windsor, Kingsville and Port Leamington, Ont., and Cleveland members of the ring. O'Boyle is alleged to have assisted in carrying out Courtney's instructions.

The parade will be led by Chief George T. Prim and an escort of mounted police officers. The 120th field artillery band and members of Co. D, 127th infantry will follow. The group will form on W. College-ave facing the east with the officers at Richmond-st and W. College-ave. ## Chief Makes Plea For Safe And Sane Fourth

With the Fourth of July only a few days off Fire Chief George I. McGilgan today issued an appeal for a safe and sane Independence day celebration, asking parents to protect children from injury and to save life and property from the fire.

Two of the most dangerous days of all the year are the Fourth of July and Christmas, the chief pointed out. The fire hazard on both of these days is increased almost 100 per cent.

"By cautioning our children and ourselves against the dangers to which human life and property are exposed on the Fourth and by doing all we can to remove the hazards, and by substituting a noisy and dangerous celebration with more intelligent and beneficial diversion, we are upholding the ideal of 'safe and sane,' the chief said.

"Clean your premises of inflammable matter and rubbish of all kinds and keep a garden hose ready for instant use. Learn where the nearest firebox is located and in case of fire promptly turn in an alarm."

"Every parent, teacher and business man and woman in Appleton should cooperate in doing his or her part to prevent accidents as well as remove the causes of loss of life and damage to property and other explosives to the recreation of sports games, excursions, picnics, fishing trips and boating or to observation, such as parades and other appropriate Independence Day exercises which are more beneficial and more enjoyable in the end, because there are no regrets in the end."

City hall offices also will be closed all day Friday. They will open again at 7:30 Saturday morning.

Refreshment stands of all kinds again will serve needs of the thousands expected to attend the day's program. The legion will be operating most of the stands but a few will be run by other groups as for instance, Co. D, 127th Infantry. Proceeds for the latter stand go into the company's mess fund to be used at Camp Douglas beginning Saturday.

FIRE CAUSES $100 LOSS TO BUILDING ON AVENUE

Fire of unknown origin caused damage of about $100 at a soft drink parlor at 522 W. College-ave about 2:30 Wednesday morning. The business is operated by Leo Schreier, who lives on the second floor of the building. Morris Aaron owns the building. The blaze started on the doorway between the business room and a back room and spread to the attic but the flames were confined to the single wall. The fire was noticed by Stanley Mader and the fire department was called from the Coney Island Hot Dog stand. About 5 o'clock Wednesday morning the department was called again to the same place, but a pail of water sufficed to extinguish the second fire.

THE VALUE of SOUND DESIGN

New Ford engine gives outstanding acceleration, speed and power without sacrificing reliability or economy

THE GOOD PERFORMANCE of the Ford car, so apparent on every highway, is due largely to the sound mechanical design of the engine.

It has outstanding acceleration, speed and power, yet that is only part of its value to you. Greater still is the fact that it brings you all these features without sacrificing either reliability or economy.

That is the reason the Ford car has given such satisfactory service to millions of motorists all over the world and has been chosen by so many large companies that keep accurate cost figures. In every detail of construction it has been carefully planned and made for the work it has to do.

The design of the compression chamber is an important factor in the efficiency of the Ford engine. It is built to allow free passage of gases through the valves and to thoroughly mix the fuel by producing turbulence within the cylinders during compression. The spark thus flashes quickly through the whole fuel charge, resulting in quieter and more effective engine performance.

Other factors are the direct gravity gasoline feed, the specially designed carburetor, the new hot-spot manifold, aluminum pistons, chrome silicon alloy valves of larger diameter, statically and dynamically balanced crankshaft and flywheel, simplicity of the electrical, cooling, lubrication, and fuel systems and accuracy in manufacturing.

Hyde Hails Tariff As Gain For American Farmer

SAYS IT WILL HELP HIM KEEP HOME MARKET

Agriculture Also to Benefit by Assured Balanced Production, He Claims

Washington (AP)—The new tariff law was hailed by Secretary Hyde today as a "distinct gain" for agriculture, providing increased protection, actually and potentially, for American farmers.

In an address over a network of radio stations, the secretary said it would serve to hold the home market for the American producer and would stimulate agriculture to balance its production against the market demand.

Many of its rates such as those on wool, eggs, and staple cotton and dairy products, he said, will be generally beneficial and others will help in border markets.

"The new act reduces, even though it may not entirely eliminate, the disparity in tariff protection which has existed between agricultural and industrial products," he said. "On an equivalent ad valorem basis, the percentage of increase on agricultural products (Schedule B) is more than twice as large as the increase upon other schedules in the bill."

"This increase was 54.43 per cent. Since the increase on all items covered in the bill is only 6.17 per cent, the increase of 54.43 per cent on agricultural products is significant. The next largest increase is 22.17 per cent over the act of 1922. This is on spirits and fruit syrups. These products are almost wholly of agricultural origin."

LISTS CHIEF PRODUCTS
Hyde cited as important agricultural products upon which the rate has been raised, cattle, meats and meat products, hides, wool, long staple cotton, flaxseed, soybeans, butter and cheese, milk and cream, casein, eggs, a large variety of fresh fruits, fresh vegetables and sugar.

"The duty on wheat was not increased above the rate established by the president under the flexible provision of the act of 1922," he said. "Establishing this rate of 42 cents in the 1930 act, however, makes possible such changes in rates as later investigation may show to be required."

"Despite the surplus in production, the duty on wheat is partially effective. It is most effective in protecting the hard spring wheat growers in seasons of short crops, but it benefits other classes of wheat by creating a stronger market."
"The tariff bill provides a duty of 7 cents per pound upon cotton having a staple of one and one-eighth inch or longer. Since it is long staple cotton which the United States imports for special purposes, this duty will be largely effective upon this class of cotton."

"One great source of potential benefit to agriculture, Hyde said, was the possibilities which the tariff law offers for better balanced production."
"For instance, we import vegetables which require 338,000 acres to produce," he said. "Our imports of soy bean oil require 160,000 acres; of corn, 84,000 acres; of meat and meat products 341,000 acres; of cattle, hogs and sheep 818,000 acres."
"The total shift in acreage from crops of which we now produce too great a surplus to crops to which increased tariff protection now offers a better market could run as high as 10,000,000 acres."

"The act adds to the potentialities of the program of the federal farm board. It affords the farmer of America adequate breakwaters behind which he may, if he will bring his productions within the operation of the law, find profitable protection."

NATIONAL GUARDS TO LEAVE FOR ENCAMPMENT
Neenah—Co. I held its weekly drill Tuesday evening at S. A. Cook ar and made arrangements for the annual encampment at Camp Douglas, which will start July 5 and continue for two weeks. Two new members, Gordon Parker and Alex McKinsty, were enlisted in the ranks. The company will have one more drill, Thursday evening, at which time several promotions are to be made by Captain Dan Hardt. The company and also the headquarters company, will encamp at 10 o'clock Saturday morning, on the new special troop train. All members are ordered to be at the Army at not later than 9 o'clock in order to get equipment in shape for the departure.

WANTS BUSINESS ZONE TO INCLUDE PROPERTY
The request of Joseph Greenspoon, to have his property in the Sixth ward included in the business district, will be discussed at a meeting of the city planning commission at city hall late Wednesday afternoon. Mr. Greenspoon, the condition of whose property has been an irritant to adjoining residents for a number of years, offers to discontinue his junk business if his property is included in the local business district. He also offers a bond to guarantee his promise.

SOLOISTS FEATURE OF BAND PROGRAM
The 120th Field Artillery band played its last concert before going to Camp McCoy at Sparta for 15 days, Tuesday evening at Pierce park. The program featured a piccolo solo by Charles Kellman and a vocal solo by Robert Livermore, well known radio artist. Members of the band leave for camp Saturday morning over the Chicago and North-western Railway.

Minneapolis Man Unable to Raise Money When Bail Is Set at $1,000

H. J. Franks, 32, Minneapolis, ran into more than an accident when he crashed into several cars smashed into a garage and tore up shanty Monday, which resulted in his being haled into municipal court on a charge of drunken driving, for it now has developed he is wanted in Idaho on a charge of converting mortgaged property for his own use. And as a result he is in county jail because of inability to raise $1,000 bond.

Franks' bond was set at $300 on the drunken driving charge but later, when police learned he was wanted by Idaho authorities, Judge Fred Heinemann, presiding in the absence of Judge Theodore Berg, raised the bail to $1,000.

Walter Schucknecht, 1313 N. Erb st., who was with Franks on the wild ride about the city was fined $25 and costs on a disorderly conduct charge.

KOHLER GIVEN JOINT REPORT ON TEXAS LAND

Resolution Proposes Establishment of Board to Investigate Values

Madison (AP)—A resolution proposing the establishment of an organization to investigate the value of Texas lands and the reputation of land selling companies was the main point of a report by a joint committee of Wisconsin and Texas businessmen, made public here today by Gov. Walter Kohler.

The committee was appointed by Governor Kohler and Gov. Dan Moody of Texas following a dispute between the Wisconsin Real Estate Brokers' board and Texas land firms desiring to do business in Wisconsin. The board refused to grant a license to one firm and this led to prolonged controversy between the two states.

The report was drawn last week following a tour of inspection through the lower Rio Grande valley by Texas and Wisconsin businessmen.

"Both committees are assured," the report said in part, "that there exists a real determination to maintain that feeling of good will and mutual respect that should exist between the citizens and business interests of these great states."

In regard to the suggestion made several months ago that Texas boycott Wisconsin-made goods, the report said:

"The Texas committee looks with disfavor on any action intended to provoke a boycott of Wisconsin institutions and record their purpose to restore that good will and comity that should exist between these two commonwealths."

LAND BASICALLY SOUND
The report said the tour of inspection had revealed that the "basic agricultural soundness of these lands seems apparent."

"In view of the fact, however," the report continued, "that past experience has demonstrated that where such unusual conditions and opportunities anywhere exist there have followed in some cases instances of improper representation and exploitation and in further view of the fact that Wisconsin is anxious to protect its citizenship from such improper exploitation and Texas is eager to preserve its reputation for honesty and fair dealing in business, it is deemed wisely this committee first steps be taken toward the creation of a reliable source of information to which regular bodies outside the state of Texas, such as the Wisconsin board, may turn for proper and credible advice in the consideration of applications which may be made for licenses to sell real estate among the citizens of these states. It has therefore been agreed that steps shall be taken in Texas looking toward the early establishment of such a source of information."

change of information and indicated quite clearly that a profound influence on the course of state government may ultimately be exerted by these annual meetings.

Entirely apart from the official sessions, the radio added a touch of the spectacular to the gathering. The two national broadcasting chains each gave an hour for a nationwide hookup. Governor Dern of Utah was anxious to give every governor a chance to speak, so each speech was limited to about two minutes, but every governor managed nevertheless to say something about the resources, scenic beauty, and achievements of his state. For the first time since President Roosevelt addressed the first governors' conference in 1908, another president of the United States spoke to the governors, but this time it was by radio from Washington to Salt Lake.

YANKS TO BATTLE YANKS IN FINALS OF NET TOURNAY

Tilden, Allison in Men's Round; Helen, Elizabeth Ryan in Women's

Wimbledon, England (AP)—All-American finals for the British tennis championships in both singles and doubles were assured today in both men's and women's singles, when the United States forces led by Bill Tilden and Mrs. Helen Wills Moody eliminated the last surviving representatives of other countries.

This remarkable accomplishment was achieved when Tilden defeated his old rival, Jean Borotra of France in five spectacular sets, 6-6, 6-4, 4-6, 6-0, 7-5, after Mrs. Moody had beaten Madame Rene Mathieu of France 6-3, 6-2, and Elizabeth Ryan, native Californian now living in England, had advanced at the expense of Freudenle Cecilie Aussem of Germany.

Miss Ryan won from the little German player only after a desperate battle in which Freudenle Aussem suffered a sprained ankle at 4-4 in the critical third set and was forced to retire. Miss Ryan had won the first set at 6-3 and Freudenle Aussem the second at 6-0.

The second semi-final in the men's single division was an all-American affair with William Allison, Austin, Texas, and John Doe, Santa Monica, Calif., fighting it out. Allison won by scores of 6-3, 4-6, 8-6, 3-6, 7-5.

Big Bill Tilden had to conquer not only his flashing opponent but also the eccentricities of his own temperament to beat Borotra. He faced packed galleries of more than 10,000 who never concealed their partisanship for the Frenchman. The Basque is a great gallery favorite while Tilden's manner on the court and his questioning of linesmen's decisions set the crowds against him and feeling increased as the match progressed.

Whenever Borotra won a point the stands rocked with cheers and when he deceived the games at 5-5 in the last Wimbledon through thundered his tribute.

MOTORIST ISN'T ONLY ONE VEXED BY NEW SIGNALS

The inauguration of the stop-and-go system on College-ave is causing difficulty from more angles than that of the motorist. In a board of public works meeting at city hall Wednesday morning it was revealed that if the motors regulating the five signals are shut off from midnight to 6 o'clock in the morning, as originally planned, within a week or ten days the whole system will be out of step.

Inasmuch as some motors are tighter than others, the revolutions of the motors after the current is shut off will vary, and eventually throw off the synchronization of the lights to a point where they will have to be retimed. This difficulty can be eliminated by permitting the motors to run all night, at small cost, but it is hoped that through consultation with representatives of the General Electric company some other remedy can be found. A. C. Langstead of Langstead Electric company, who installed the lights, was instructed by the board to confer with the company. It is probable that the motors will be kept running all night until a solution to the problem has been reached. It is estimated that the amount of current used during the night would be only that of a 50 candlepower light. The wear and tear on the motors, if used all night, would probably be more serious than the cost of current, but even this would be preferable to permitting the lights to get out of step.

An extra cable installed at the time the system was put in was expected to control the revolutions of the motors so they would remain synchronized, but it failed to do this when the lights were put in operation Wednesday.

THE HONOR OF THE GOVERNMENT

Governments live on their honor. There is no way of compelling them to do something against their will excepting by armed force. The Merchants association of the city of New York is still fighting to compel the government of the United States to pay a little over $300,000 in back pay due for over fifty years to 1342 men employed by the navy department at the New York navy yard. Regarded as one of the most unusual claims against the government this overtime account now sought principally for the descendants of the laborers, has resisted frequent and powerful intercessions. It is based upon a written communication by the secretary of the navy in 1878 fixing eight hours a day for the laborers but promising that "all workmen electing to labor ten hours a day will receive proportionate increase of their wages," and is for the overtime that was never paid.

The claim has resisted a decision of the court of claims in 1909 made after a minute examination into its merits that it was just and that the government should pay it. It has resisted the message of President Taft to congress that "the delay that occurs in the payment of the money due under the claims injures the reputation of the government as an honest debtor and I earnestly recommend that those claims which come to congress with the judgment and approval of the court of claims should be promptly paid." Congress of course has the last word to say and the claims cannot be paid without an appropriation from that body. In the meantime nearly all the laborers are dead, with about thirty surviving, some of them in the eighties and nineties.

Congress, so indulgent in the allowance of pensions, should not shut its eyes to the necessity of the government, at all times keeping its word implicitly and no matter how humble the worker or for how long a time justice may have been denied him, either he or his descendants is entitled to this long delayed compensation. The Merchants association of New York has succeeded in persuading Senator Cope-land to introduce a bill to liquidate these claims. Its interest in the workers and the use of its influence to compel the government to live up to its word are both worth while.

INVESTIGATING CRIME

President Hoover rather took the senate by surprise after it had refused his request for an appropriation of $250,000 for the Wickersham law enforcement commission, by announcing that he would raise $100,000 of private funds to continue the commission's comprehensive investigation of crime in general. The senate voted to cut the appropriation to $50,000 and confine the investigation to prohibition. The senate is willing to spend the smaller amount because it deals with a subject steeped in politics. It will get something out of the report on which to harangue the people. It may or may not give weight to its conclusions or act upon its recommendations.

The crime problem embraces a great deal more than prohibition. It is important to know the source and cause of crime, whether it springs from prohibition or from something else. If the president can obtain cooperation from private citizens to finance the general investigation that is his right and as we see it, his duty. The work of the commission in the field outside of prohibition will, of course, not have an official status, lacking as it will congressional sanction, but there is no reason why it should not be equally effective and illuminative.

The president is serving the interests of the country by his determination to make a comprehensive study and survey of crime in general, even if it is over the heads of congress. If there is one thing the country needs to know about and ponder over it is the wide prevalence of lawlessness and the disregard for constituted authority and the rights of others.

THE MONROE DOCTRINE

There has been a prevalent notion in this country that the Monroe doctrine means no European government may do anything in the western hemisphere without our permission, but our government may do anything it wants to. Thus the doctrine has often been invoked to justify intervention of one kind or another in the affairs of Latin-American countries, sometimes justified and other times stretching the interpretation pretty far. The stretching has made Latin-Americans restive and suspicious and aroused widespread fear of "American imperialism." The state department recently gave out a new statement of that doctrine which seems to get back pretty close to first principles. It may be just as well to go all the way back and quote the original document itself:

We should consider any attempt on their part (that is, of the European powers) to extend their system to any portion of this hemisphere as dangerous to our peace and safety. With the governments who have declared their independence we have maintained it, and whose independence we have acknowledged, we could not view any intervention for the purpose of oppressing them or controlling in any other manner their destiny, by any European power, in any other light than as the manifestation of an unfriendly disposition toward the United States.

In plain English, we do not interfere in Europe, and do not want Europe to interfere in America. We simply regard our nation as the big brother of the other American republics. Nobody seriously objects any more to such a policy. The only objection comes when Uncle Sam is tempted, as he has been now and then, to compel these smaller American republics to behave themselves and refrain from giving foreign nations cause for complaint.

CURBING NOISES

There are more noises in summer than in winter, and people notice them more, because they are hot and bothered. The Noise Abatement commission of New York, taking note of these facts, informs the public that nobody has to endure all the usual noises. Quietness is now a civic right in the metropolis. For examples:

Radio loudspeakers in front of shops are forbidden.
Any persons operating radios or other sound-amplifying devices that disturb the "comfort, quiet and repose" of neighbors are subject to arrest on complaint.
Milkmen, ash men and garbage collectors are not allowed to make a racket.
Tooting automobile horns to summon friends is forbidden.
Loud and disturbing conversation is a punishable offense.

Why cannot the people of every city have a similar protection? The principle reason is politics.

More Truth Than Poetry

"HOW HAPPY I'D BE WITH EITHER"
By James J. Montague
I like to climb aboard my car,
Which stands by my code,
And drive it daily fast and far
Along some country road.
To turn and twist that way and this,
Urged on by super-power,
But if I do I'll have to miss
The No Grit toothpaste hour.

I like to turn the little knob
With an attentive ear
Until I catch the beat and thrub
Of Benny Bilkins' band.
But when upon these strains I feed,
My peace of mind is marred
For then, of course, I cannot speed
Along the boulevard.

Aboard my little bus I climb,
The countryside is close
But in a fleeting space of time
The radio calls me home.
I listen to some vocal star
A little while, and then
I have to switch her off—the car
Has called me out again.

If I possessed a car alone
Or just a radio set,
I would not daily need to moan
And fume and fuss and fret.
With either one of them to part,
I am extremely loath,
And yet I daily break my heart
To get along with both.

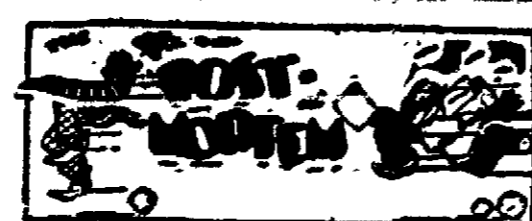

THE LAND OF OPPORTUNITY
All caddies hope to be professional, and by the time they grow up there will be enough new golf courses to provide jobs for all of them.

We heard the other day about an inventor who never bought any stock on a margin unless it was stock in a marginal railroad.

ONE OF the Hunter boys in the endurance plane, which, if it stays up any longer is going to be classified as a planet in our solar system, has requested that his uncle be sent up. Oh, the irony of it, the utter degeneration, the overwhelming something-or-other.

He Oughta Sleep in a Rumble Seat
Wild Bill from Wausau, he who was puzzled about the pig on West College Avenue last week, is in bad shape. Going to bed and being put in a straight-jacket is all the same to Bill. He can't get out of either of them.

Excitement
It would seem that what decorations the street-trimmers didn't take down, were nicely removed by the wind the other night.

Gosh-gosh-here we're writing this and the first attempt to broadcast the endurance flier's own words is going on—oh gosh oh gosh oh gosh.

And it worked! We heard the Hunter boys talking from their plane. Of course it was noisy, and all that, but the fact that it was the first time, and was a little record all of its own means a lot. It was the first time in the history of aviation and radio that such an event had been successfully accomplished.

And did we ever get a kick out of it!

A farmer down in Prairie du Chien got a fine for speeding remitted because he told the judge how hard up he was due to low prices on farm produce. The next time we get fined, we've a dandy story all planned on the bottom dropping out of the column market.

Today's Anniversary

LEE'S RESOLUTION
On July 2, 1776, the Continental Congress adopted the resolution of Richard Henry Lee of Virginia declaring the United States free and independent.

Lee introduced his measure on June 2, 1776, and supported it by a speech of the most brilliant eloquence. He moved, in part, that "these united colonies are and of right ought to be free and independent states, that they are absolved from all allegiance to the British crown, and that all political connection between them and the State of Great Britain is and ought to be totally dissolved."

This resolution, which, of course, was the Declaration of Independence, was not only passed July 2, but also signed on that day. The custom of celebrating the Fourth of July in commemoration of this occasion, is therefore historically incorrect. John Adams prophesied wrongly when he wrote to his wife, "The second day of July, 1776, will be the most memorable epoch in the history of America. I am apt to believe it will be celebrated by succeeding generations as the great anniversary festival."

Another fact not generally known in connection with the signing of the Declaration is that John Hancock and Charles Thomson, president and secretary respectively of the Continental Congress, were the only men to sign the real Declaration. Other signers affixed their signatures to a copy of the original document.

THE PHYSIOLOGY OF REST.
THE SEVEN SECRETS OF SOUND SLEEP.
There are really five essentials of healthful sleep, but we'll list them under seven heads in order to harmonize with the deadly sins, the senses and the divers feminine members of the long haired family.

1. A bed consisting of a base, springs and mattress. One might say a good deal about this, but all I shall say here is that fashions in beds were as fickle as fashions in millinery and automotive equipment, the trade in value of the average bed the second season would scarcely interest the junk dealers. Don't be so tight; treat yourself to a good bed and relax.

2. Some covers for the aforementioned bed, to wit, sheets, a wool blanket or two, and nice feather tick of a down comforter for warmth with lightness. Don't leave any muscles working all night holding up heavy covers.

3. Sleeping garments. Whatever kind of pajamas or nightgown or nightgown, make sure they are comfortable. Wool lined moccasins for those who have cold feet. Stocking cap for those who sleep in the open.

4. Attractive roof furnishings and decoration.

5. Thoughtful arrangements of heat, light and ventilation. As a rule, the less heat the better, with due regard for comfort. Cold air is more soothing than heat. The window screen of unbleached muslin is fine for sleeping rooms in cold and stormy weather. Subdued light, if any, is desirable.

6. Atmosphere. Late last autumn we drove over the mountain thru miles of painted scenery and came to a roadside inn in the hills. The windows were open and our windows a little brook murmured and babbled all night. If one could have that atmosphere at home! Life isn't like that, but one can have wind rustling the poplar trees, rain softly patterning on the tin roof or an occasional blizzard howling around the house at night. People do not give the sleeping room atmosphere enough consideration when building, buying or renting homes.

7. Quiet. This doesn't mean silence. Some city people become restless and disturbed by such silence as many country people enjoy at night, just as country people are disturbed by the night noises in the city. Infants should be trained to sleep in a quiet household. Noises just as you and I, in normal health, can and do sleep untroubled by ordinary sounds. Even the milkman singing or whistling his matutinal ditties and blithely banging his cans or jangling his bottles along the street should not inspire thoughts of murder or whittling to the papers, provided he is fairly regular about it and one can expect him to babble of the brook or the patter of the rain on the roof disturbing Schopenhauer in his essay on Noise tells us we are veritable dumbbells if we do not mind noises much. The philosopher says noise is an interruption—of thought. But he fails to distinguish between sound and noise. A pessimist would sound a note of warning, the rumble of thunder, the splash of waves on the shore, even the roar or hum of passing traffic, the distant whistle or boom of train or boat, these are sounds which surely do not annoy you when you are snug in your bed and ready to sleep, especially when the sleeping environment in general does not put you in a bad mood.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS.
Another Dry.
I am 27 years old and as far back as I can remember I have never drunk any water, except in tea, coffee or Coca-Cola. I have never been especially healthy. After reading in your column that it is necessary to keep on drinking water, I have been drinking two glasses a day, but I dislike the taste of it and it makes me a bit sick, so I am taking less. K.M.W.

Answer.—At any rate you should take a glass of water with each of your three meals and another on retiring. Most sedentary adults require at least six or eight glasses of water daily aside from other beverages or foods. Mealtimes is the time to drink water. It aids digestion.

Hawthorn.
Kindly let me know the properties and dosage of the herb "hawthorn." (J. C. L.)
Answer.—English hawthorn, not common in this country, is used for hedges in Europe. The red berries contain tannin before they are ripe, and are so astringent. So far as I know this herb is not employed medicinally.

Wait Till the Nostrum People Discover It.
In our high school textbook on biology, paragraph 316 deals with "Antiseptics: Lotions and Gargles," and says there is no remedial property in the many so-called antiseptic lotions, gargles, and the like, which happen to be on the surface, and ordinary salt and water will accomplish that. Yet we find the nationally known antiseptic (a nostrum) sold under the claim that it is (C. W. —, Superintendent).
Answer.—The book is right.

Pop Corn vs. Flaxseed.
Would pop corn have the same effect on a person as flaxseed? The only difference I notice is that flaxseed is repugnant while pop corn is agreeable to me. (P.)
Answer.—There is little similarity. If popcorn seems to have the same effect, why take any flaxseed? Popcorn provides some cellulose or bulk or roughage; flaxseed provides a mucous lubricant.

The Tinymites
By Hal Cochran

THE Russian train was quite a sight and tickled Clowry Tinymite. Said he, "This sure is different that the trains we have at home. It's funny how you get so thrilled over trains that are of different build. It seems we find a new sort in most every place we roam."

The Travel Man then said, "My boy, it's different things that put the joy in any sort of journey. That's why we have all had fun in every town of every size. A change brings forth a grand surprise, just like our trains, however, it is steam that makes this run."

"Oh, I would like to go up front. I think 't would be a dandy stunt," cried Carry. "Let's all hike up to the engine cabin now. The engineer won't start to rave, if we are careful and behave. If he is shoveling coal we might turn in and help someone."

So, through a lot of trains they ran and shortly found the engine man. He let them come into his cab for just a little while. "No help is needed now," said he. "But you can sit and ride with me." And so they sat real quiet as they moved mile after mile.

Soon Mister Travel Man cried out, "Come boys! We're just about to land in grand Odessa. It's a mile or so ahead." And sure enough, with quite a shout, they reached the depot and jumped out. They promptly found a fine cafe where they were nicely fed.

Then, after eating, they went found and on a quiet street they found a funny little toy shop. "Walk right in," somebody cried. It was the toy man. He was kind, because he said, "I do not mind if you all watch me make toys. Stand right here by my side."

A BYSTANDER IN WASHINGTON

BY HERBERT PLUMMER
Washington — Out on Fifteenth st., high on the hill which overlooks Meridian park, stands perhaps the most typically foreign spot in the national capital—the legation of the Netherlands.

It's "Dutch"—every bit of that handsome building.

The site was chosen by a man named Jonhiser de Graafie—new royal governor of the Dutch East Indies.

All the material that went into construction of the building came from Rotterdam. All of the workmen selected for the task of building came from the same port.

The architect was the director of fine arts in Amsterdam. And the household equipment, paintings and tapestries were selected by him in the land of dykes.

The result is a bit of Holland set down in one of Washington's most fashionable sections.

ALL DUTCH
A visitor has little difficulty in imagining that he is in the land of windmills and dykes once inside the legation, whether he enters by way of the impressive entrance to the residence or through the door of the school—which in conformity to Dutch tradition always stands hospitably open.

There is old carved oak furniture, Dutch marquetry, wrought iron, and splendid brass—in common usage just as they are in Holland. And the paintings would do credit to a museum.

Dutch diplomacy in America dates from the first chapter of this republic. Of the four representatives of friendly powers who greeted President Washington on the day of his inauguration, April 30, 1789, one was from the Netherlands.

Bald, mustached Dr. Dan Hermaen van Royen is the present minister from Queen Wilhelmina's kingdom. In Washington for three years, he ranks as one of the most popular diplomats accredited to this country.

OBSERVE TRADITION
Mme. van Royen is an American—daughter of the late Robert Winthrop of Boston. Their eldest son only recently was assigned as attaché to the legation of his father in Washington.

All of the Dutch traditions are observed by the minister and his lady at the legation on Fifteenth-st.

Mme. van Royen keeps high court on anniversaries such as the Queen's birthday and that of the Princess Juliana. The date of the formal coronation is an event of importance on the legation's calendar.

Nor does Mme. van Royen fail to take note of holidays peculiar to the United States.

The wife of the secretary of the legation is also an American. And the minister—L. G. Van Hoorn—is one of the most eligible bachelors of the diplomatic corps in Washington.

Pithy Sayings
"Women endanger their health by eating foods which they fondly hope will cure whatever is wrong with them."

—Dr. Morris Fishbein, health authority.

"Drink no intoxicating liquors: In these days of keen competition whisky and business won't mix—you can't do both."

—Captain Robert Dollar, ship owner.

"After all, we must remember that politics and economics are not the masters of men—they are their servants."

—Owen D. Young.

"We go around seeking to 'show up' the evil intents of men rather than to 'show off' their good points."

—Rev. Ralph W. Sockman, D.D.

"The underlying principle of successful psychology is to keep men out of jail rather than in."

—Lewis E. Lawes.

"Behind our chaos, our riot and our crime lies the fundamental kindness of the human soul."

—Will Durant, author.

"If women want to go into industry, they should need no alibi."

—Suzanne La Follette, writer.

SAN FRANCISCO BAY FERRIED BY AIRPLANE ROUTE

New York Also Contemplates These Rapid Transit Bay Hoppers

BY BEN G. KLINE
Copyright, 1938, by Cons. Press
San Francisco — The company which operates aerial ferries over San Francisco bay — duplication of which service is contemplated in New York city — claims several distinctions for its skim, rapid and splash inter-city transportation set-up.

The Oakland-San Francisco service, with planes leaving each side every twenty minutes during daylight, probably is the shortest regularly established air route in the world. Thirty-eight thousand passengers were carried in its first five months of operation, which is claimed as a record number for any air service.

The amphibian seven and eight passenger planes operate from a central terminal in virtually the heart of the waterfront, wading ashore under their own power after landing in the water, and taking off from the water in the busy harbor stream. Two schedules are now being maintained — San Francisco to Oakland and San Francisco to Vallejo, at the extreme north end of the bay — and others are planned for inauguration when equipment is available.

As originally visualized, the company is finding its greatest usefulness and revenue in the transportation of fast express and letters, delivery being made not merely across the bay, but from point to point. All messenger service performed by the leading telegraph company between Oakland and San Francisco now goes via the air ferries.

Peter J. Brady, chairman of the New York city mayor's committee on aviation and airports, landed here last night to inspect the facilities under which they operate. It is understood here that permission has been informally sought in New York to establish similar ferries with the central terminal at the Battery, the first route to be between the Battery and Staten Island. The air ferries here are being studied before the petition is acted upon by the New York committee.

Merely The Baer Facts

By Arthur "Bugs" Baer

ONE WE DON'T HAVE TO ANSWER
Appellate Division rules that a young lawyer does not have to know who discovered America.

We didn't know it was a secret.

It all started when Jack Brennan, young law student, was being examined by the usual committee on new business. The examination was to determine Jack's fitness and character.

A young lawyer should always start his career with character. He can incorporate himself later on.

They asked him who discovered America and he refused to answer by advice of some prehistoric counsel. What has the discovery of America got to do with a young lawyer's character? He can always discover New Jersey by himself.

It was ruled a nonsensical question. And it's getting funnier every day.

We think the committee decided correctly. There must have been a stranger on it.

Every day we are asked foolish questions by boards and committees. You go to the wharf to ask for the nearest foreign country that will make you a tourist and some important bozangle asks:

"How many leaves are on an artichoke?" The answer is "Too many." But how are you going to know that if you don't come from an old line of artichokes?

When you register for an election a man says, "For what is the state of Connecticut famous?" It's famous for being close to New York. But why ask that when you are going to vote for a man who lives in California, never rode a bicycle and doesn't know that William and Mary is a college instead of a brother and sister?

When you go into a grocery store to buy a can of condensed watermelon the man doesn't ask you who carried the banner at the battle of Flodden Floe. No, he gives you what you ask for and doesn't want to know how halitosis looks when it's frozen.

A young lawyer can be happy in America without wanting to know how it got here, who discovered it and why he didn't protect himself by a patent.

It ain't a bad place to live. But the first thing you know the questions are going to eat up all the answers and our future education will depend on billboards, blindfold tests and light, detective fiction gleaned from a few chapters of alphabetical soup with the sequel in the saucer.

There is more waste motion with the tongue than there is with a broken piston shaft. We think that most legal and governmental questions are asked because the man wants to find out himself.

If you don't know the answer you are ignorant. And if you do you are crazy.

Jack Brennan and the committee have started something that may amount to more than a snowball rolling downhill. The snowball gets bigger as it rolls south. But it ain't worth a dime more at the bottom than when it started at the top.

We are glad that the courts ruled that a man doesn't have to have a hat full of nonsense in order to be able to tip it.

BOOTLEGGING OF FIREWORKS SEEN AS NEW MENACE

Despite Many State Laws
Many Accidents Are Expected from Explosives

BY OWEN L. SCOTT
Copyright 1938 by Cons. Press

Chicago — Now there is the fireworks bootlegger perched on the roadside through many sections of the country — prepared to provide a modern "unsane and insane Fourth." A heavy casualty list is in store during the coming holiday in the opinion of law officials. They admit themselves helpless, however, to disturb the purveyors of explosives who have been set up in wholesale fashion outside the city limits.

This same situation is widespread, according to the National Safety Commission. Most cities, responding to the plea for a safe and sane Fourth of July have ordinances forbidding sale of fireworks, but the effect is nullified by the roadside stands. As a result, five persons were killed here last year and 33 wounded handling the explosives.

The Fourth of July normally is the worst day in the year from the point of view of accidents. The Safety Commission reports that this holiday provides more drownings, more automobile accidents and more miscellaneous injuries than any other. There is a normal daily accident toll of about 265 deaths. On the Fourth this total jumps to around 400 for the whole country.

The estimate is that fireworks provide about one hundred of these deaths. This number is a decrease, however, from the by-gone days, when it was fashionable to use liberal doses of gun powder in providing the appropriate noise. Most danger nowadays comes from the wicked looking giant crackers — regular fireworks — sold to most anyone with the money to buy.

Education has had results in curbing the indiscriminate use of fireworks, the safety council advises, "but these fireworks stands are doing much to overcome the effects of the long campaign for a safe fourth." "But it is the same as with some other laws. Restrictive ordinances are found effective for a time, and do have much effect in holding down general use, but ways of evasion soon are discovered. Roadside fireworks bootleggers are common in most sections today and evidently only state laws can touch them."

Washington — (AP) — The United States commission was directed by the senate Tuesday to investigate the cost of production here and abroad of lace fabrics, and all lace articles, as proposed by Senator Blagden, Republican, Connecticut.

JUDGE ADVISES WIFE HOW TO KEEP HUSBAND

Waukesha —(P)—If a wife believes some other woman is attempting to steal her husband, the best thing to do is to combat feminine wiles with more feminine wiles, Circuit Judge C. M. Davidson advised in divorce court here.

"Be modern, keep pace with your husband and with the other women who meet in the course of his work," was his advice to Mrs. Lillian Merryfield, wife of Wesley Merryfield, golf professional at Delafield and superintendent of buildings and grounds at St. John's military academy.

Merryfield sought a divorce on the grounds that his wife nagged him because of alleged association with other women. The case was taken under advisement.

Flapper Fanny Says:

For some folks, an escalator is just a moving scare-away.

Interesting Menus

Very often the ice supply is not adequate for frozen desserts. In the country and at summer camps and cottages, ice is frequently at a premium and is used primarily to preserve the most perishable foods.

However, temptingly chilled desserts are not impossible even if frozen ones are out of the question. Everyday tapiocas and blanc manges become enticing desserts when made with fresh fruits and served well chilled. The same ice which keeps the milk and butter can chill the dessert.

Persons who spend some time in the country and know the lure of wild blackberries will enjoy blackberry blanc mange. Wild blackberries are much sweeter than the tame varieties and of a more delicate flavor. Either can be used in the recipe.

BLACKBERRY BLANC MANGE

Three cups washed berries, 1 cup water, 2-3 cup sugar, 1-3 cup cornstarch, 1-3 cup cold water, few grains salt.

Use very ripe berries for the pudding, reserving a few perfect ones for a garnish. Crush berries, add water and stew until soft. Strain and add sugar. Return to the fire and stir in cornstarch stirred to a smooth consistency with 1-3 cup cold water. Add a few grains of salt and cook and stir until thick. Cook 20 minutes, stirring occasionally. Pour into individual molds and chill. Serve garnished with whole berries and whipped cream.

RASPBERRY TAPIoca

Raspberry tapioca is another simple dessert to serve thoroughly chilled on a hot summer's day.

Two cups raspberries, 1-2 cup pearl tapioca, 1 cup sugar, 2 cups water, few grains salt.

Wash and drain berries. Put into a deep bowl and cover with sugar. Let stand for an hour. In the meantime soak tapioca in water until swollen — it will take from 30 to 60 minutes. Add sugared berries and juice. Cook and stir until mixture boils. Then cook over hot water until transparent. Chill and serve with plain cream. If this dessert is wanted for small children, the seeds should be strained from the pulp.

RED RASPBERRY AND CUR-RENT BAVARIAN

Red raspberry and currant bavarian is a decidedly festive dessert and is suitable for a company luncheon or dinner.

One pint red raspberries, 1 cup currants picked from stems, 1 cup water, 1 cup sugar, 3 tablespoons cornstarch, whites 2 eggs, 1-3 cup whipping cream, few grains salt.

Wash and drain fruit. Add water and boil until tender. Press through a sieve and add sugar. Return to the fire and bring to the boiling point. Stir in cornstarch stirred to a smooth consistency in a little cold water. Cook and stir until thick. Cook 20 minutes over boiling water. Cool slightly and fold in whites of eggs beaten until stiff and dry. When cold fold in cream whipped until firm. Pour into individual glasses to chill and serve garnished with a whole red raspberry and a spoonful of whipped cream.

The Story of Sue

MARGERY HALE
© 1929 BY NEA SERVICE, INC.

BARBARA's face was a curious mixture of retreat and defiance as Sue accused Judge Thornton and told him that Barbara wished to make a request.

"Oh, no, I'm sure Miss Merryman misunderstood," she said in the limp, liquid tones that were like notes of beauty, splashed with music. "I was just saying how queer it will be to go to parties and meet each other socially, now that Sue is Harry Becker's sister-in-law, and then have to send in my club dues and attend to odds and ends of shopping as my husband's secretary."

Sue caught a twinkle in the eyes that sparkled keenly under Judge Thornton's shaggy brows. "This is a business office, Barbara. We don't attend to any personal affairs. Sue does her own shopping."

"But she looked after the dinner party for Jack?"

"Well, it might be better..."

"I'm sorry, Barbara, but I brook no interference in my legal affairs," the man told her, rather pityingly because she was so out of her element.

"You go pour all the tea you want to at afternoon parties. Bodenhofers also said that Peacock's alibi was that he and his wife spent last Wednesday and part of Thursday at Fairfield, where they have relatives."

"If I'm so safe, just why did you want me removed? I would think you would be glad to have someone staid in the office. But personally, I think you can trust Jack. I wouldn't worry."

"You're forgetting your position," Barbara answered, the sweetness disappearing from her tones, now Judge Thornton had gone. "For Harry's sake, I suppose there will be no change."

Sue swept into Jack's office, golden head tilted at an angry angle. When she had gone, Jack came over to Sue, rather awkwardly.

"Barbara's a darned sensitive kid, Sue. Never had to buck up against anything. Something hurt her this morning and she came in and cried. I always have to watch what I say to her and I guess we all will."

Sue's eyes were angry blue.

"And you believed her?" she asked. "You thought I said something to offend her?"

"Of course you didn't mean to..." He was plainly embarrassed. "I know that."

"She was the one who said things to hurt me!" Sue shot the words back. "But I wouldn't have come. It isn't sporting. Go ask your father!"

Suddenly she started to cry, furious sobs that shook the slender shoulders under the blue flannel dress and her dark head went down on the switchboard.

NEXT: Jack apologizes. (Copyright, 1930, NEA Service, Inc.)

VALISE MURDER IS PUZZLE TO PERU COPS

Lima Peru —(P)—Police here are puzzled by what they called a valise murder. Breaking open the door of a room in a boarding house here they found two small valises containing the body of a man hacked to small bits.

Tenants complained of something wrong about the room, leading the landlady to call the police. An immediate investigation was begun, but the officers have found no clues.

CAROL'S SPEECH READ

Bucharest —(P)—Premier Manu Tuesday read in the chamber of deputies King Carol's speech closing parliament's session. In the address King Carol said he was conscious of his great responsibility as successor to two illustrious monarchs but would rely upon the collaboration of his people to govern justly and in the spirit of his country's laws.

INTERNATIONAL CHAMBER TO MEET AT WASHINGTON

Paris —(P)—The next congress of the International Chamber of Commerce was definitely fixed Tuesday for May 4 to 9 at Washington, D. C., by the council of the chamber. It was announced that this action was taken after adoption of resolutions at a Friday meeting regarding solution of the present world crisis.

CHECK UP ALIBI OF SUSPECTED SLAYER

Washington, Iowa —(P)—Ray Scott, operative of the state bureau of investigation, Tuesday led a party of Washington officials in an extensive investigation checking up the alibi offered by Emmett Peacock, Anamosa garage owner, arrested as a suspect in the slaying of Sheriff Fred Sweet and Marshal Aaron Bailey.

Sheriff John Bodenhofers of Anamosa, said the charges had been filed at Washington where the two officers were slain in the sheriff's office last Thursday morning by a man they had arrested and were questioning as an automobile thief.

Bodenhofers also said that Peacock's alibi was that he and his wife spent last Wednesday and part of Thursday at Fairfield, where they have relatives.

To clean a Panama hat put an ounce of oxalic acid (poison) in sufficient scalding water to cover the hat. Put the hat in this solution and hold it down with a stick so that it is entirely covered. Leave it for five minutes, then take it out with a stick and dry in the shade.

When preparing early rhubarb for pies it is not necessary to peel it. Just cut it into very thin slices about a quarter of an inch thick.

Before pouring hot paraffin over newly-made jelly, lay a piece of white store string about six inches long over the top of the jelly. When the paraffin is added it will harden over the cord. When the jelly is to be used, it is necessary only to take hold of the two ends of the cord to lift the paraffin cover off.

Our Children

By Anglo Patri

SLOW SAM

Slow Sam is a nuisance to himself and to other people. We have to live by the clock whether we like it or not and Slow Sam holds us back so that we miss trains, arrive late at engagements, get behind with the daily schedule. This feeling of being late and of having to make up time all day is one that distresses and fatigues us beyond measure. If only Sam would hurry. (It is just the same if it is Sue.)

We have to recognize that these slow-moving children live on a rhythm far slower than our own. Maybe the rhythm is broken because of physical disability. First have the physician examine the child and make sure that all that can be done to make and keep the child physically fit is done. Then set down the day's schedule. Talk it over with the child. Agree on a fixed time for dressing, bathing, eating, play, give the child enough time, but not too much, and hold him to the agreement.

If you can turn out some cheerful, fast-stepping music while he dresses you will find it very helpful. It supplies the stimulus of the rhythm the child seems to need. Have the alarm clock ring at the precise moment agreed upon. Penalize the child by inconveniencing him when he is overtime.

If the slow child is allowed to come to the table in his bathgown and eat his breakfast in leisurely, stop-over fashion, he will have no incentive for promptness. He must be dressed, arrive at the table on time, finish his meal on time. If, instead of following him about the house trying to get a glass of milk down his throat while he meanders about in search of this or that missing article, you rise from the table promptly and make him do the same, so that he knows he neither eats on time or does not eat at all, he will learn to consider the span of time a bit.

If, when the family are to go out for a trip he delays with his dilly-dallying ways, you start without him and leave him at home with his regrets and the cat for company, he will learn something to his great advantage.

If, when he settles down to enjoy his day-dreams you hustle him along to do his chores, refusing him a moment's peace until he gets to work, and if then you charge him for the use of your time by refusing to take him to some place of amusement on the ground that he tired you so completely by forcing you to follow him up for simple tasks and that you need the time for rest—while he reads a good book—he will earn a whole lot to his great advantage.

Begin with the little children. Help them to dress by putting on one stocking while they put on the other, seeing which stocking goes on first and best. Set a time schedule and praise them when they stay within it. Encourage and praise them when they are swift and right and in good time. Encourage promptness and penalize dawdling, and things will work better.

Remember that day-dreaming, procrastinating, delaying and arguing are likely to be signs of failure somewhere just beyond the act in question. Set the stage for success at the end of the task and the child will hurry to meet it. Nobody runs to the job that he fears. Consider that when you face the problem of your slow child.

Contrasted to the Colorful Summer Gowns, Paris Talks of Dark Clothes

BY AILEEN LAMONT

New York—It seems that in the back of her head, Paris is planning a black Autumn. As a contrast to the gaily summer hues, black is going to be very fashionable; this forecast is out before summer has even arrived. Dull satin evening gowns, heavy and rich; black velvet afternoon gowns; these are already beginning to peer above the horizon. Black chiffon is in our midst right now.

OPERATIVES CITED IN LATE COMPLAINT GRANTED LICENSES

Controversy Over Issuance of Soft Drink Parlor Permits Settled

Neenah—The Menasha city council settled a two weeks controversy over the operation of city soft drink parlors Tuesday night, by granting licenses to the two operatives mentioned in the complaint written by former Justice of the Peace, E. J. Sudney, read before the city fathers in the meeting of June 17. The written complaints had been withdrawn before Tuesday's meeting, according to John Jedwabny city clerk.

The permits were issued to Peter Kropiowski, 406 Racine-st., and to Gustave Jacobs, 235 Main-st. The license, formerly issued to Rina Gothe, 566 Racine-st., was withdrawn and a permit given to his son, Rino Gothe, Jr., who now is operating the Lenz hotel. The first two motions, entered by Alderman McGilligan, were passed by votes of seven to two and six to two respectively. Alderman Jacobs being absent and Alderman Schierl not voting on Jacobs permit.

The question of city department attendance at out-of-town fires again was brought before the council and letters from the town of Menasha and from the Wisconsin Inspection bureau were read. Alderman Kelly spoke in favor of offering out-of-city aid while Mayor Remmel and Alderman McGilligan suggested that the town of Menasha furnish special equipment to be manned by city firemen and housed in the city station. The matter was laid on the table until the next meeting, with Mayor Remmel, in conjunction with Fire Chief Paul Thieme, authorized to decide the issue in case of fire during the next two weeks.

A petition from property owners along Winnebago-st. who desire the installation of concrete curbs and gutters excited considerable discussion during the meeting. Several aldermen expressed the belief that permanent paving would be more feasible while others supported the petition signers. The matter was referred to the street committee for specifications and estimates of cost.

The substitute fireman and policeman, selected by the fire and police commission, were accepted by the council. Bernard Kometzke was named temporary policeman, subject to call, and Clarence Hess will act in the same capacity as fireman. The $500 surety bond, required of policemen acting regularly on the force was presented by George Resch and accepted by the council.

The financial report read by City Clerk John Jedwabny, showed total balances aggregating $53,253.46. The general fund balance was $47,850.16, the police pension fund $1,706.25, the bond and coupon balance, $22.50, the firemen's pension fund, $2,300, and the cemetery fund, $1,349.16. Special accounts receivable totalled $42,016.86 with the amount due from the government totaling $9,528.33; from sewer $81,419.37 and from sidewalks, $3,668.81. Poor aid for June was recorded at $246.25.

The campaign for installing two life stations in Lake Winnebago, at Federal expense, was brought before the council by Alderman McGilligan. The council moved to enjoin the campaign, and the city clerk was authorized to advise Congressman Lampert of the action.

The subject of Menasha's need for a new government post office building was again brought before the city fathers. A recent telegram to the attorney general, sent by the finance committee officials was declared inadequate and unofficial and the council moved to authorize the city clerk to communicate with the attorney general on the subject and in the name of the city of Menasha.

The only bid received for providing two solid rubber tires for the street department tractor was accepted by the council following a recommendation by the street committee. The bid was sent in by the Gibson Tire Company at a quoted $144.95 as the price for the two tires.

The letter of appreciation sent by the Holstein Friesian association, concerning the excellent treatment accorded it in Menasha, during the recent picnic here, was read to the council. Arrangements were also made to welcome the several district grange organizations which are planning a day's outing in Menasha, on July 27. The council accepted the invitation of the Headquarters company of the 127th Infantry, Wisconsin National Guard, to attend the governor's day exercises at Camp Douglas on July 12.

The letter of appreciation and report, presented to the council by Fire Chief Paul Thieme, concerning his visit to the fireman's school conducted at Madison from June 24-28, was accepted by the city fathers. The Twin City Memorial Day committee report, showing a balance of $56.11 also was accepted.

An ordinance pertaining to the operation of motor boats in the city of Menasha, was brought before the council and referred to the committee of the whole. The ordinance attempted to enforce the use of mufflers on the motors, and prohibit unnecessary noise or a speed of over ten miles per hour. It also included a penalty of from $100 to $500 fine, with an option of 30 days in jail.

A deed to the city, covering the land used by the municipal bathing beach, was received from Mr. and Mrs. George Pierce and placed on the main floor of the old theatre on Main-st. Menasha will be communicated with concerning the removal of the theatre canopy that projects over the sidewalk.

FIREMEN PRACTICE WORK ON LADDERS

BECKER MAY START FOURTH OF JULY GAME

Strong Showing Against Kaws Boosts His Stock in Valley League

Menasha—Whether or not Becker, Neenah-Menasha south paw hurler, will start the game at Wisconsin Rapids on July 4, will probably be determined after the practice session at Recreation park Thursday afternoon, according to Harry Leopold, co-manager. The youngster's showing at Kaukauna Sunday, makes him a likely choice for the holiday battle.

Becker will again will be stressed in Thursday's workout. Several members of the Twin City squad have failed to attain their last season's hitting stride this year, and the slump has ruined chances to score in a number of innings. Nixon, regular hurler for the "Pads" will be on deck for relief work if Becker takes the mound.

Members of the B. B. B. club under the direction of Mrs. W. H. Miner, will return Wednesday afternoon from a week's outing at the Spider Lake resort at Manitowish. The 17 club members who made the trip will arrive in Menasha, on a special coach, about 4 o'clock p. m.

Menasha Royal Neighbors held their regular bi-monthly meeting in the Knights of Columbus lodge rooms Tuesday evening. Following a short business session, cards were played and a luncheon served.

The winning five club was entertained Tuesday evening at the home of Mrs. William Obright, 409 N. Main-st. Schafkopf was played, honors going to Mrs. Anna Fahrbach, Mrs. Molly Boehnlein, and Miss Emma Groessel. The club will hold its next meeting with Mrs. Boehnlein, July 15.

The Germania Benevolent society will hold a regular meeting in the Menasha Auditorium Monday evening. A short business session will be held.

Menasha—Menasha Odd Fellows lodge will hold their regular weekly meeting in the chapter rooms, Wednesday night. Work in the third degree will be done.

The Monday evening schafkopf club was entertained at the home of Mrs. John Arlt, Broad-st. Prizes were awarded to Miss Dorothy Augustine, Mrs. A. Cook, Miss Clara Stumpf, and Mrs. Joseph LaSage.

The Benefit Society of the Trinity Lutheran church of Menasha has postponed its meeting planned for Thursday evening, until July 10. Proximity to July 4 was given as the reason for the change in schedule.

The regular meeting of the Menasha Legion Auxiliary, scheduled for Thursday evening, has been postponed because of the holiday Friday. The next meeting will be held on July 17.

AUTO PUSHES MAN UNDER WAGON; FRACTURES LEG

Menasha — Henry Konekko, Menasha ice man, suffered a broken ankle Wednesday morning when a passing automobile brushed so close that Konekko, who was walking fast beneath the wheels of the ice wagon, was heading the horses along Main-st. and was in front of the cry hall when the accident happened. He was taken to the office of Dr. G. E. Fovkin where the fracture was treated. The identity of the driver of the automobile causing the accident has not been learned.

INSPECT, REPAIR DEFECTIVE WALKS

Air Jumps Take Nerve

And the Way You Feel Physically Makes All the Difference in the World

J. A. PANNECK
CHIROPRACTOR

—Who adjusted "Dare Devil" Smith before his jump.

Airplane pilots tell us that their courage and their whole attitude toward flying varies from day to day with the way they feel, if they feel full of pep and healthy, they can try anything, nothing frightens them. Their nerve is unshaken; their skill keen; their flying is perfect. It is an entirely different story however if they wake up in the morning feeling sick down in the mouth, then flying isn't quite so easy. What is the matter with these brave people when they are not up to par?

This is a lesson that sick people can learn from airmen, a lesson that points to Chiropractic the natural, and normal way without the use of drugs or medicines to keep the body internally clean of the poisons. You can be at the top notch efficiency and happy all the time if your nerves are free from pressure which is the cause of disease.

PRESIDENT LAUDS PUBLIC BUILDING

Next Six Months Promises "Even Greater" Things Toward Stabilization

Washington — (AP) — President Hoover says "important results" have attended the administration's effort to expand public construction as a means of stabilizing business and that the next six months promise "even greater" things.

He made these assertions in an address of greeting to the governors' conference at Salt Lake City, spoken by radio from his study in the White House.

Congratulating and thanking the state executives for their response to his request for increased building he said he had been informed by the commerce department the total of such construction for the first six months of 1936 had not been less than $1,700,000,000.

"This figure," he adds, "exceeds 'even the boom year of 1929 by over $200,000,000."

"We have hitherto regarded great business depression with their inevitable train of unemployment and hardships as an inevitable fever which must run its course," Mr. Hoover said, "and in former times if public works were undertaken in alleviation of unemployment it has been in the sense of semi-charity."

"This time the nation has realized that as a sound economic policy, that prudent expedient of construction could be to an important degree used as a balance wheel to maintain security of employment, to maintain consumption of goods, to thus contribute to economic stability and above all to relieve hardship."

MT. HOREB FARMERS PICK FISH ON FIELDS

Mt. Horeb — (AP) — Residents here say this is the best fish story of the year.

Heavy rains the last two days caused Bohn Creek to overflow its banks and send water into adjoining pastures. When the water subsided, farmers picked up German Brown trout — some of which weighed four pounds, they say. One agriculturist had two washubs of suckers.

HITCHCOCK TO RUN FOR NORRIS SENATE SEAT

Omaha, Neb. — (AP) — Entrance of Gilbert M. Hitchcock into the race for the Nebraska senate seat held by George W. Norris sets the stage for what may be one of the most spectacular battles of the 1936 campaign.

Hitchcock, publisher of the Omaha World-Herald, is the only democratic senator ever elected from Nebraska for more than one term. He served from 1910 to 1922.

During the war he was chairman of the foreign relations committee of the senate under President Wilson, and his defeat in 1922 was generally credited to his support of the treaty of Versailles.

He went to the senate in 1910 from the house of representatives, with a long tradition. His father, Phineas Hitchcock, an early Nebraska pioneer, once was a Republican senator from Nebraska.

After graduation from the law college of Michigan university in the early eighties, and spending some time in study in Germany, Hitchcock decided to become a newspaper man.

He established the Omaha World-Herald in 1889, consolidating it with the Omaha Herald, which he still owns and publishes.

Leaving the family political tradition of Republicanism, he became a democrat and fought the early battles of "16 to 1" with William Jennings Bryan, then a young Nebraska lawyer.

To give Bryan an additional paper before the Chicago convention of 1896 when Bryan was nominated for president.

In later years, however, Bryan and Hitchcock had parted political company. Bryan following his affiliation with prohibition, and Hitchcock with the cause of Nebraska Democracy.

Hitchcock was the choice of Nebraska Democrats for the preference primary in 1936.

SUBPENA WITNESSES IN ILLINI VOTE FUND QUIZ

Chicago — (AP) — Subpenas for witnesses in the senatorial investigation of campaign fund expenditures of Senator Charles S. Deneen and Ruth Hanna McCormack in the 1935 primary were placed in the hands of United States marshal Tuesday by Senator Gerald P. Nye, chairman of the senate inquiry committee.

Senator Nye and Senator Charles McNamara were to return to Washington tonight and were expected back to Chicago July 14 to resume the investigation. The witnesses named in the subpenas were not made known. They were supposed to appear the week of July 14.

One of the witnesses, however, became known when Senator Nye excused George F. Harding, county treasurer, who said he was preparing to leave on a trip to Europe.

Mr. Harding agreed to continue his position to the senators. He was one of Mrs. McCormack's backers.

NO HOPE FOR PROPOSED STATION

Radio Commission Adjourns With no Possibility of Hearing Application

BY RUBY A. BLACK
Post-Crescent Washington Correspondent

Washington—All hope for the early establishment of a 5,000-watt radio station belonging to the state of Wisconsin vanished when the Federal Radio commission set for hearing the application for consolidation of WHA, University of Wisconsin station at Madison, and WLBL, State Department of Agriculture and Markets station at Stevens Point.

As no more hearings will be held this summer, this means that no action can be taken on the application for consolidation of these two stations, one with 1,000 watts power and the other with 150 watts, into the proposed powerful station to be known as WRS, with the transmitter at Hancock and the studio at the University of Wisconsin. Occasionally the commission reconsiders such action and grants an application without hearing, having done so twice recently in the case of Wisconsin stations but it is not considered likely that it will do in this case.

An effort initiated by Rep. John M. Nelson of Madison to unite the congressional delegation from Wisconsin in support of the application failed completely, Rep. Edward E. Browne of Waupaca opposing it in behalf of Stevens Point people who do not want the station moved from their immediate vicinity.

Rep. Nelson and Rep. Henry Allen Cooper of Racine were the only members supporting the application, others remaining practically neutral while Rep. Browne opposed and blocked united effort for Wisconsin's unique idea of operating a powerful state station.

The consolidated station would be used by various state agencies, including the highway commission, the education board, the health board, the Department of Agriculture and Markets, the Conservation commission, and the University of Wisconsin.

COMMISSION EXPANDS HATCHING FACILITIES

Madison—(P)—The last of six concrete rearing ponds to accommodate from 5,000 to 10,000 trout are under construction at the Westfield trout hatchery, the conservation commission said today. Construction of the ponds is part of a five-year program to increase the distribution of 20-month old trout. Approximately 100,000 adult trout will be distributed from the trout hatchery this fall, the commission said.

NEW JERSEY G. O. P. FOR REPEAL OF DRY LAW

Trenton—(P)—The Republican state convention ratified today, by a 95 to 15 vote, a platform plank of which declared for repeal of the eighteenth amendment and return of liquor control to the state.

TEST HARDINESS OF ALFALFA AT COLLEGE

Madison—(P)—The ability of alfalfa to withstand the hazards of winter is being tested by electricity with a device developed at the University of Wisconsin college of agriculture.

The electrical test accomplishes in a few minutes what formerly required years of painstaking research, according to L. F. Graber, agronomist at the University of Wisconsin. He believes the test one of the most promising discoveries in the field of plant research that has been made within the past few years.

Frozen alfalfa roots, after being thawed, are placed to soak in a liquid solution. If the roots have been injured by the cold, an electric current passes through the solution readily. If the roots have not been injured, the current passes through the solution with difficulty.

Details of the test will be discussed at Farm Folks' Field day here July 12.

CITY IN HEALTHIEST CONDITION IN MONTHS

Cases of contagious disease in the city dropped from 48 to 19 during the past week, leaving the city in the healthiest condition it has known for several months. The list includes seven cases of measles, six of chicken pox, five of whooping cough and one of tuberculosis. Mumps were completely stricken from the list last week, although a new case was reported Tuesday morning. Measles dropped from 20 to seven.

WHY TAKE A CHANCE? Goodyear quality is at its peak, tires delivering 4 to 10 times greater mileage than in the old days.

WHY TAKE A CHANCE? Gibson Service is the fastest and most efficient in the Fox River Valley.

WHY TAKE A CHANCE? Gibson's trade - in allowances are liberal and to your greater advantage than ever before.

REMEMBER THIS FACT—Modern fast cars require better tires than ever before. A blow-out at high speed invariably throws your car in the ditch. A slow leaking puncture surely weaves a car around beyond the comfort limits... So how about fast deflating blow-outs?

Enforce July 4 Laws And Halt Injuries, Plea

Madison — Wisconsin has laid plans for a sane Fourth of July without danger of injuries due to explosives. Cooperation of parents can make the Fourth a Children's Day without the tragedies of each year past.

In the past five years, sixteen people have died in Wisconsin from Fourth of July casualties and 171 have been injured.

"If we can have a full enforcement of the laws, through cooperation, the story of untold sufferings and loss of lives through the abuse of fireworks, will not occur," declares the Educational Committee of the Wisconsin State Medical Society in a bulletin issued today. "The state legislature has recently enacted a law prohibiting the sale in Wisconsin of all fireworks of a dangerous nature. It is hoped that the people of the state will cooperate with public officials in seeing to it that this law is fully enforced."

Since 1922, there have been twenty-five deaths, and 236 injuries in the state from fireworks accidents. The State Industrial Commission in a bulletin just issued declares that in the past few years, in addition to the deaths and injuries reported, thousands of dollars worth of property have been destroyed by fires started by use of dangerous fireworks.

"If the people of Wisconsin would spend their Fourth of July in recreational activities, everyone would reap a benefit," declares the Medical Society's bulletin. "The use of all explosives is dangerous. The result from a single accident may be that a person must carry a maimed hand throughout life and frequently eyesight is involved. The pleasure of using dangerous fireworks is too expensive to the lives and property of this state."

"There is no type of wound which so frequently causes lockjaw as a fireworks burn," continues the bulletin. "When for any reason the skin is penetrated by such burns, be forewarned. Don't attempt to do anything other than first aid. If given early enough tetanus antitoxin will prevent lockjaw, which is almost always fatal if it once develops."

"Finally, take an interest in seeing that the laws on this subject are obeyed. Report the facts of violations to the proper officers. By so doing you will be lending a hand in preventing what has been all too frequent in the past—a tragic ending to a happy day."

WOMAN AND 4 CHILDREN MISSING SECOND TIME

Tomah — Mrs. Maynard Nutt and her four children, who disappeared from the cabin of J. G. Heath, confessed slayer in the Minnesota north woods two years ago, were missing again Tuesday after they were believed to have been located at Oakdale, near here.

Mrs. Nutt was reported by her brother, Lee Finch, yesterday as living at Oakdale, but when he went to visit them today he found they had disappeared again. A neighbor said he noticed the family leaving nearly two weeks ago.

Search for the woman and her four children was started last week after Maynard Nutt, St. Paul, the husband and father, told of their disappearance after he had left them with Heath in the Minnesota north woods. Nutt said he fled after Heath threatened his life.

Heath, formerly a farmer near Oelwein, Ia., is in jail at Grand Rapids, Minn., charged with slaying a deputy state game warden several months ago. He has denied any knowledge of the Nutt family's whereabouts.

Risko Gets Chance To Regain Prestige Among Heavies

MEETS GRIFFITHS ON STADIUM CARD IN COMEBACK BOUT

Tuffy Also Seeking Honors Lost When K. O.'ed by Jack Gagnon

BY FRANCIS J. POWERS Copyright 1930

CHICAGO—The rubber, blubbery John Risko, whose chin is as elastic as the dough he once kneaded, and "toughy" Griffiths, often called "Tuffy" since Jack Gagnon whacked him on the jaw, are going to do something or other to the heavyweight situation, here, Wednesday night.

Both Risko and Griffiths harbor the idea, privately, of course, that Max Schmeling is just another guy and no sort of a fellow to be wearing the heavyweight crown. Both are eager to get a chance at the black Union, provided the emoluments are sufficient, and their chances hinge largely upon the outcome of the scrap, here.

Risko, who is counted out of the heavyweight running at least once a year, is in the midst of a comeback. John has been out of the bluebook of "serious contenders" since Herr Schmeling beat him more than a year ago. But like the rubber man he is Risko is bouncing back toward the top.

Since John began beating back, he has trimmed some good men, including the large and rough Campolo from the Argentine. More recently he took a decision from Paulino L'zoum of the Pasque, and while the old woodchopper is not the fighter he was two seasons ago, still is tough enough to test any one.

Griffiths partially avenged his knockout by Gagnon when he outpointed the Canadian in a return bout. But in that scrap he did not show any of the lethal punching powers that made him such a prospect. He has started climbing the heavyweight ladder. Though he should be one of the best heavyweights in the business for he has youth, speed and boxing skill on his side. But he cannot go far with a tumorous disposition and his scrap with Risko will tell a lot about his future.

The Chicagoan stands to win the fight, but may not. He holds two decisions over Risko, but has won once on a foul and again on a decision. But Risko's boring in tactics may annoy Griffiths and the baker has a body attack that has slowed up a lot of rough boys.

John now is a family man and is taking his business with much seriousness. Risko never was one to be choosy about his opponents and has fought them all from George Godfrey down without asking favors. If he hands Griffiths a shellacking the big dough merchant will be a card in New York once again.

Schmeling is the only fellow to hold a knockout decision over Risko and that occurred when John had other things on his mind than fighting Risko. He believes he can reverse the decision if he gets another chance at the black Union. And that's the goal he's fighting for when he tackles Griffiths.

Big League Ball Players From Every State In Union

BY CLAUDE BURCKY

WE look to Iowa for our tall corn — Wisconsin comes through with the cheese — Cape Cod for cranberries — and the guy that named baseball the great national pastime spoke words of truth. The major leagues today have chosen approximately 400 ball players from 36 states and the District of Columbia. Even Canada and Cuba are represented.

Illinois could place on the field a team with pennant-contending class. So could Pennsylvania and California and Alabama. Texas and North Carolina go in strongly for pitchers — so strongly, in fact, that a young hurling prospect nowadays almost has to hail from those states to be assured of a fair tryout.

ILLINOIS VS. PENNSYLVANIA

FORDS PLAY TWO GAMES THIS WEEK

Invade Green Bay Friday Afternoon, Entertain Kaws Here Sunday

Two games are scheduled this weekend for Augie Brandt's Fords in the Fox River valley league, one Friday afternoon at Green Bay and the other Sunday afternoon out in Brandt park. Kaukauna invades the city for the latter game.

Brandt, who tops the league but is tied with Wisconsin Rapids, the Fords have high hopes of sucking there for an indefinite period. They beat the Bays last Sunday and figure they can turn the trick again Friday although the Green Bay ball park always is a jinx.

Sunday's game with Kaukauna and the one the week following at Menasha, if they can be turned in to victories will give the Fords a certain idea of where they'll end up in the league race.

The Fords now seem stronger than at any time in recent years. They have two good hurlers in Lefty George Ritten and Dats Crowe, the latter a right hand tosser. The team batting has improved in the last couple of weeks and the infield is as strong as ever even with Kotal missing.

The fact the club has been winning games this season has resulted in splendid turnouts at all contests. Appleton fans now are expected to be in the club and a large number are expected to go to the Bay Friday.

Sports Question Box

Question—If the pitcher has both hands on the ball and then steps to ward second and bluffs to throw is it a balk?

Answer—No.

Question—When and by whom were the first boxing rules drafted?

Answer—By Jim Broughton, often termed to as the "captain of boxing" in 1743. Broughton was English.

Question—Should a batter always run out his third strike without looking to see whether or not the ball is caught?

Answer—Yes. That is good baseball.

Question—Can a batter be called out for going to home plate with his glove in his pocket?

Answer—No.

Question—Who settles a dispute over a question of time in a basketball game the referee or the time keeper?

Answer—The timekeeper.

Question—If a game is forfeited before a run is made or the game actually begins, is it customary to give a pitcher credit for the victory?

Answer—No. Who pitched it?

Frances Williams, now Eastern golf champion, began to play the game at the age of 6. Her father, professional of the Lehigh Country club, Allentown, Pa., instructed her at the early age.

Boxer in Hospital AFTER DETROIT FIGHT

Detroit, Mich.—(AP)—Solly Schuman, 20, of Chicago, who outpointed Carlo Mazzola in a preliminary bout on the Mastro-Taylor card at state fair grounds arena last night, was taken to the Highland Park general hospital after the fight.

He was treated for bruises on the head inflicted by Mazzola but his condition today was said to be good. He was expected to leave the hospital before night. No fractures were found.

DIAMOND CHALLENGE SCULLS MEET OPENS

Henley, England.—(AP)—Joe Wright of Toronto easily defeated J. N. Groves of the London Rowing club in a heat of the diamond challenge sculls in the Royal Henley regatta which opened on the Thames today.

DID YOU KNOW THAT

ONE of the reasons why Bucky Harris left Washington and went to Detroit was Joe Cronin. Bucky always thought Joe was a great ball player, but Griff wasn't so hot for him. The rift that existed between Griff and Bucky gradually grew. And Joe's great work this year makes Bucky look pretty good, thank you. When Bucky made the prediction that Cronin would come through for the Nats, Joe was playing terrible ball. He hit but .243 in 63 games his first year with Washington and pulled numerous peculiar plays. The next year he batted .282 in 145 games. This year he has been smacking 'em around .300. And fielding in fine style. Joe won't be 24 years old until October. He's a San Francisco boy, and Pittsburgh had him up twice, finally selling him down the river to Kansas City.

Suggests Badger Crews Transfer To Lake Monona

MADISON—With the rowing of the varsity race at the Poughkeepsie regatta and the subsequent election of Louis Oberdick '31, of Edgemoor, as captain of the 1932 crew, athletic activities of the University of Wisconsin ended for the school year 1929-30.

Oberdick has rowed two years in the Badger varsity crew, pulling No. 2 oar, and is popular with oarsmen and students generally. Coach George (Mike) Murphy expressed satisfaction with Oberdick's election. An excellent crew captain, Murphy said, "He is a fine oarsman, with a wonderful spirit and under his leadership I hope that Wisconsin will enjoy a successful rowing season in 1931. He has the ability to hold the men together and is a popular choice."

While disappointed that the Badgers were able to finish no better than eighth in a field of nine crews Coach Murphy offered no excuses for his crew's showing. Wisconsin entered the race admittedly far short of the amount of rowing which a varsity eight must have to expect to make a strong showing in competition like that at Poughkeepsie, the greatest intercollegiate rowing regatta in the world.

The Badgers and actually been able to get in the two time trials over a four-mile course before leaving for the east. The average crew goes to Poughkeepsie with 50 to 100 miles of time rowing behind it. While Lake Mendota is and always will be too rough to row on, many days each year, the adverse conditions this spring were a "bump" with the Badgers. The varsity crew, which has to travel more than ten miles to practice, is the only university rowing at Poughkeepsie where conditions compare at all with those at Madison.

To those who follow rowing at Wisconsin closely, the answer is obvious. The Badgers must transfer their training quarters to Lake Monona. On this smaller lake, it is possible to row four days out of five when Mendota is too rough to venture on with a shell. With the varsity boat house located at present on Mendota much time is lost when the shells have to be transported on trucks to Monona. A boat house on the latter lake would help to solve the Badgers' rowing problems—that, and more shells.

Lake Monona is not large enough to offer a four-mile course but toward the end of the season, when four mile trials are desired the crews could be transported to the larger lake on such days as it is calm and the water is of perfect time and under the present arrangement.

Machines 7, Tuttle 4.
Coated 5, Telephone 1.

Appleton Machine company softball team went back in a first place tie in the American league Tuesday evening when it again accomplished the little trick of beating the Tuttle Press company for the second time this year. The score was 7 and 4 and gives the Machines the honor of being the only club to beat the Pressmen in the last two seasons.

The Pressmen went to work in the fourth inning when they pushed one marker over the rubber and then added another in the sixth inning. In the eighth win the score 4 and 2 for the Pressmen, the Machines set off the fireworks and before things could be straightened out, Mortel relieved Gressenz in the box. However, he could not stop the rally either and when the inning ended the Machines had tallied five runs.

Rommel was another star in the Machine company lineup, making several sensational catches in left field, and crashing through with a two base hit in the big eighth inning that gave the Machines two of their runs.

The other game on Tuesday evening's card saw the Coated Paper company stage a comeback and bump off the Telephone company, 5 and 4. The game was close throughout the Coated ten putting down a "Phone rally in the ninth with a rapid fire double play.

MERCHANTS, CORNERS PLAY HERE FRIDAY

Appleton Merchants of the Central Wisconsin league will meet Murphy's Corners at Wilson school grounds Friday it has been announced by local club officials. The game will be the only one in the league Friday, the date having originally been an open one. The Appleton-Corners game was rained out a couple weeks ago and as Friday is an off day the two clubs will settle their differences then.

The Corners has won only one game this season while the Merchants top the loop with two defeats and six wins.

Kid Chocolate Returns To Ring After Accident

BY WILBUR WOOD Copyright, 1930

NEW YORK—Featured on this week's Esic calendar is one boxer who seems a sure thing to wear a crown before he hangs up his gloves and another who came about as close as possible, without actually crashing the hall of champions.

The one who should be a champion is Kid Chocolate, who boxes

Dominick Petrone at Ebbets Field Wednesday night. The other, the lad who couldn't quite make the grade, is Sid Terris, paired with Pete Nebo at the Queensboro tomorrow night.

Five years ago the east side was every bit as excited about Terris as that district now is enthused over Al Singer. The east side will o' the wisp, with the steel-spring legs and the lightning straight left, had won fifty consecutive victories as an amateur, acquiring metropolitan state, national and international championships in a period of ten months.

Graduating into the professional ranks, he had continued to pile up victories by his lightning speed. Then came the boxing commission's lightweight tournament to choose a successor to Benny Leonard. Terris haughtily refused to mingle with the lesser lights who entered the competition. It was his idea to let them settle their squabbles and then take the title away from the winner.

But that was not to be. Jimmy Goodrich, a rank outsider, won the tournament and then blew the title to the ancient Rocky Kansas, who in turn was deprived of it by Sammy Mandell, who has held it ever since. Terris never received another chance at Mandell. And he never will, barring a miracle, for Sid is now in the sere and yellow.

Chocolate will be making his first start in a couple of months when he goes to the post with Petrone at Ebbets Field. The contest will bear more than the usual interest in that it will be the keed's first time out since he was smashed up in an automobile accident near Orangeburg.

WEEK'S RESULTS
Brandts 5, Legion 2.
Atlas 3, Legion 4.

WEEK'S SCHEDULE

Wednesday—Printers vs. Valley Iron.
Thursday—Bankers vs. Foresters.
Friday—Co. D. vs. Brandts.

For the vets went out last evening and were defeated the second time in two days in National league softball games. The defeat Tuesday evening came in the hands of the Atlas mill team and the score was 8 and 4.

Tonight the battle for the cellar championship is on with the Valley Iron and Badger Printing company teams clashing.

BLUE BOYS WIN FROM NEENAH K. C. TEAM

PAPERMAKERS AND KAUKAUNA CLASH FRIDAY MORNING

Record Crowd Expected to Watch Game at Little Chute Park

KIMBERLY—Baseball fans in this part of the valley will all flock to Little Chute the morning of July 4 when Marty Lamers and his cellar champs will play host to the strong Kaukauna team. The Little Chute park should be filled to capacity, because both Appleton and the Neenah-Menasha teams are playing away from home and every fan from Kaukauna certainly will be present. So plans are being made to make room for one of the largest crowds that ever watched a ball game from Casey Jansen's back yard.

Taking a glance at the league standings the Kaukauna team has a big advantage as they rest among the leaders while the Papermakers have sole possession of the cellar berth. But this fact will have no bearing on Sunday's game for although the Villagers have only won one in eight tries, the games have all been close. According to the law of averages the Kimberly-Little Chute squad is just about due for a win.

Last year on the Fourth of July Abbott and Vanderpool staged a gripping battle in which Abbott pitched a no hit game. Kaukauna winning 1 to 0. The fans still talk about this game and every one hopes the game Friday will be just as good.

The Villagers are still dickerings for a new mound artist but it is unknown whether they will have a new face on the mound Friday or not. Kaukauna will play the same lineup that has enabled them to coast along in such fine style up to the present time.

The Papermakers' infield may be changed around some. Sunday at Wisconsin Rapids, Gossens played second and the veteran Marty Lamers issued orders from the side lines. And Friday there may be more changes for nothing would please Marty Lamers better than to beat his neighbors from the Electric City. The game will be called at 10 o'clock.

HUDSON is World's Largest Selling "EIGHT"

Registrations officially recorded by every State in the Union show that for this year more Hudson Eights have been delivered to consumers than any other eight in the world.

Here is the Why of Hudson Eight Leadership

The public's award of eight-cylinder leadership to Hudson comes in a year when eight-cylinder cars are in the spotlight of motor attention and scrutiny. All eights have been widely and carefully studied; eight-cylinder rivalry has been keen. And out of this situation has come the public's verdict for Hudson.

Proving how Hudson's performance deserves this leadership 25 stock cars were subjected, in a nation-wide test, to a solid week's non-stop run. All conditions of weather and roads were encountered. Some of these runs were made over country highways—some were altogether city driving. In each instance the motors ran without stop for 168 hours—7 days.

Average gas consumption in 124,750 miles was 14.585 miles per gallon. Top speed exceeded 80 miles an hour. Braking efficiency was approximately twice police standard. Acceleration and hill-climbing tests exceeded all previous Hudson records. Not a car or motor failed.

This great test proved reliability and performance in every driving condition. It proved economy such as no one ever expected in an eight. It proved smoothness and riding ease, for such runs would be impossible without these qualities. We stand ready to prove to you personally similar abilities and similar leadership.

Wins Famous Tour de France

Against eighty-seven cars from every country Hudson scored 100% in winning the highest honor including the Ansaldo Cup in the nine-day Tour de France, most celebrated of the annual tests staged on the European Continent.

COUNCIL BORROWS $50,000 TO PAY CURRENT EXPENSE

Aldermen Grant Three Soft Drink Licenses and Refuse One

Kaukauna—A resolution to borrow $50,000 to pay current expenses was passed at a meeting of the common council Tuesday evening. The money will be borrowed on ten notes of $10,000 each. A resolution authorizing a $100,000 bond issue also was adopted by the council. This increases the bonded debt of the city to $356,000.

Class A licenses to operate soft drink parlors were issued to Joseph Derv, 101 E. Third-st.; Fred Reichel, 505 Boyd-ave; and Antone Sprangers, 154 E. Third-st. A license was refused to George Gottenlohnner who applied for a license to operate a soft drink parlor at 401 Park-st.

Alderman E. Brewster, in moving that the license money be refunded and the license not granted, stated that he did not approve of having soft drink parlors located near the city parks. LaFollette park is adjacent to Park-st. The council expressed the same sentiment on the matter.

The council also refused license to the William R. Snapp Attractions to operate in the city for a short time. This action was taken to the recommendation of Chief of Police R. H. McCarty.

A report of the sewer committee was deferred until the next meeting of the council when Frank Charlesworth, city engineer, will give a complete report.

Alderman G. L. Spith reported favorably on the staining of the Legion hall on Oak-st. He stated that the cost of stain is less than paint and does not injure the brick. Alderman E. Landreman proposed that the city buy the stain and let the Legionnaires apply it to the building. He stated that the city has little money and that expenses ought to be kept down as much as possible.

Work done by the local post for the city on the river wall didn't cost the city any money, though it is one of the city's largest improvements, Alderman W. Cooper brought out. He said that the cost of applying the stain would be little and as the building belongs to the city it ought to be done by the city. Alderman Smith was instructed to get an estimate of the cost of staining the building and make a report at the next meeting which will be held on July 15.

Mayor B. W. Fargo and members of the council were invited to attend the Fourth of July picnic to be held by the St. Mary church at the LaFollette park by the committee in charge.

FIND 6000 STANDS OF GRAINS, CORN IN MAPLE CREEK

Fields in This Township Have Made Strides Despite Early Frosts

BY W. F. WINSEY
New London—Maple Creek farmers have corn waist high, covering the ground, and barley and oats which are generally much better than in any other part of Outagamie-co. Nearly all the cornfields in Maple Creek were planted about May 12 and these with the small grain were frost bitten but since the frost have made great strides. The farmers planted their corn early for the purpose of getting big growth ofilage and crib corn, loaded with ripened ears. For the same purpose they are liberal users of commercial fertilizers. One farmer, who has a tremendous growth of corn for this time of year, used fertilizer freely on his field at the time of planting but skipped rows in the field to test the value of the fertilizer. Corn in the skipped rows is very short while in the balance of the field it is nearly four feet tall. Another farmer who applied fertilizer has corn as large that he had to give up cultivating. To help get big crops of corn the farmers do thorough weed-killing with machinery. In explanation of their early planting, the Maple Creek farmers say that they do not fear three frosts in the spring as much as one frost in the fall. They also say that they are very careful about the selection and curing of seed corn.

SMALLER FLOCKS
On account of the low price of geese, turkeys and ducks last fall and low egg production last spring, the farm women of Maple Creek are not raising as large flocks as last year. The fall poultry prices, they said was not a sufficient incentive for any one to raise poultry for the market.

On Saturday, August Schwandt, town of Maple Creek, was cultivating the best field of corn that the writer had seen up to that morning. The stand is perfect and the leaves nearly cover the ground and reach up to the waist line. During the past 20 years Mr. Schwandt has been developing his corn into an early ripening strain with large production for the fall. His surplus seed ears as nearly alike as peas in a pod show that Mr. Schwandt knows something about type and how to maintain it. The fertilizer he used is composed of phosphate and potash. A Clarence Furst has five acres of the largest and most thrifty corn in the town of Maple Creek. Mr. Furst is building a concrete basement for a new brick house, 32 x 40 feet, which he expects soon to construct.

Albert Knapp, town of Maple Creek has a 10-acre field of the best barley he has ever raised and perhaps as good as can be seen in the township or county.

GOOD CABBAGE
Mr. Knapp also has an 8-acre field of cabbage set with home grown plants that are for heading. Although the frost took more than one-half of his plants he salvaged more than enough to set his 8-acre field. Knapp Brothers, town of Maple Creek, have 10 acres of a remarkable stand of corn, three feet tall and now covering the ground. The corn is just about ready to begin tasseling. The brothers fertilized their field liberally but skipped rows in various parts of the field. The corn in the skipped rows is about 8 inches tall.

William Hilker, town of Maple Creek, has a field of five acres of corn so large that it covers the ground and that he cannot get through the rows with a cultivator. Mr. Hilker planted his corn before the frost and developed it through the use of commercial fertilizers and thorough cultivation.

Although her geese did not lay as well as usual last spring, Mrs. Hilker raised 60 goslings. She lets the goslings run about and hunt the choicest patches of clover and alfalfa and does but very little extra feeding. As turtles disable the goslings she keeps the goslings away from the brook and ponds.

FEWER CHICKENS
Mrs. Minnie Penz and Miss Melie Krueger, town of Maple Creek are in the poultry raising business again this summer but not as strong as last year. They said that the low prices of turkeys, geese, and chickens last fall furnished no incentive for increased production this summer, and hen turkeys and geese laid very poorly last spring on account of a shortage of grasses and other egg-producing feeds that birds pick up on their ranges. They also said that a larger proportion of eggs than usual were infertile last spring.

COUSINS DROWN WHILE SWIMMING IN RIVER

Wausau—(AP)—Two cousins, Joseph Badienski, 15 and Joseph Neinski, 16, both living near here were drowned in the East Chippewa river nine miles east of Wausau Monday night, while swimming. The bodies were recovered several hours later with grappling irons. The boys are believed to have suffocated cramps and were forced to the bottom of a 15-foot swimming hole by a strong undertow. Other boys, not knowing of the drowning, discovered the bodies while diving.

The mayor of Eastlake, Mich., intends to reduce the tax burden of the 500 persons in his village by raising funds through community dances.

CHICAGO GREAT WESTERN MAKES GOOD PROGRESS

Is One of Few Railroads to Move Ahead Despite General Depression

By GEORGE T. HUGHES (Copyright, 1930, by Cons. Press)
One of the few roads able to make progress despite the general industrial depression this year is Chicago Great Western. The new management has met with surprising success in building up the property and in cutting down the operating ratio. No dividends have ever been paid on the common stock of the present company and none has been disbursed since 1919 on the preferred on which the accumulated charges are 56 per cent as of April 1 last.

Obviously both issues of these stocks are purely speculative but they have an active market and a good sized public following. The capital structure is strong with only $32,262,198 of funded debt against $47,133,092 of preferred and $45,210,513 of common stock. Bond interest was earned 1.73 times in 1929, earned 1.53 times in 1928 and has been fully covered in every year since 1923. Consequently the one large bond issue outstanding, the general 4s of 1929 are a reasonably good investment. They sell in the open market on a basis to yield better than 6 per cent but as the obligation of one of the smaller and non-dividend paying roads fluctuate through a rather large range. Although gross fell off in the first four months of 1930 7 per cent from the same period of 1929, net operating income increased more than 104 per cent making it the highest in recent years.

Presumably the first six months will not make so good a showing in view of declining car loadings but the road is in a position to take advantage of a pick-up in traffic when it occurs. In the Interstate Commerce Commission's plan for railroad consolidation the Great Western is placed in the system headed by the Santa Fe. The present management, however, have let it be understood that they have no intention of seeking a merger with any other road but hope and expect to put the property on a paying basis on its own account.

In 1929 net income was equal to $2.62 per share of preferred and based on the results to April something like $4 will be earned for the preferred this year.

EDUCATION ASSOCIATION CONVENES IN OHIO CITY

Columbus, Ohio.—(P)—With the presentation of committee reports on secure laws and retirement systems for school teachers the National Education Association swung into the first business session of its 68th annual convention Tuesday.

The reports of the committees on tenure and retirement allowances, through which the association hopes to build up a more efficient body of teachers for the public schools, were outstanding among the committee studies offered at the initial session of the representative assembly.

Nominations for president to succeed E. Ruth Prytle of Lincoln, Neb., were in order. Three outstanding educators mentioned for the presidency are Joseph E. Foster, Fairmount, W. Va., president of the West Virginia State Normal school; Willis A. Sutton, superintendent of schools at Atlanta, Ga., and Dr. John W. Abercrombie, Montgomery, Ala., assistant superintendent of education in Alabama.

FLEES TO ITALY TO AVOID MURDER TRIAL

Kecouch.—(P)—As his preliminary hearing on a charge of murder was to open Tuesday it was found that Frank Cucunato, alleged slayer of his friend Sylvester Bilotti, had obtained, and used, a passport to Italy. They were operators of companion machines in underwear factory here. They were laid off. When Bilotti returned to work he took Cucunato's machine. That night he was killed, on his way home. Cucunato pleaded guilty and was at liberty under $10,000 bond.

CHANCES BRIGHTEN FOR ZIONIST UNITY

Supreme Court Justice Brandeis' Offer for Harmony Is Accepted

Cleveland.—(P)—Hope for unification of forces within the Zionist organization of America was increased Tuesday with the assurance of Supreme Court Justice Louis D. Brandeis that he stands ready to cooperate with leaders of the movement after nine years of differences with the administration.

The Brandeis administration was overthrown in 1921 and since then he and Federal Judge Julian W. Mack of New York, had headed forces dissenting with the present administration.

Brandeis' offer to return to the organization in an advisory capacity was enthusiastically accepted as the means of bringing about in our ranks that good will and faith needed to unite all forces in American Israel.

Meanwhile, negotiations were continued in an effort to reconcile opposing leaders. The Brandeis-Mack proposal for reorganizing the administration originally insisted that the work be done by a committee of not more than nine members, none of whom would be connected with the present administration.

It was reported, however, that the negotiations had reached the stage whereby a compromise would call for three committees, two of nine each to handle political and administrative matters and one of five members to conduct financial affairs.

SIXTH DISTRICT GAINS 19,736 IN POPULATION

Oshkosh.—(P)—With completion of Green Lake-co population figures Tuesday it was revealed that three counties gained and three lost population in the last ten years in the Sixth Congressional district, leaving a total gain in population in the district of 19,736. The district population in 1920 was 214,205. It is now 233,942.

Counties that gained are Winnebago (Oshkosh) Fond du Lac and Manitowish; those that lost are Marquette, Green Lake and Calumet. The Winnebago gain was the largest—12,655. Oshkosh's population is 40,075.

Green Lake-co's population is 13,745, compared with 14,675 in 1920, a loss of 1,130.

JACQUELINE ON HER OWN

by RICHARD STARR

SYNOPSIS: Jacqueline Grey had been on her own for the major part of her 19 years. Her ambition extended beyond the life afforded by her wages as a model at Byrums, exclusive London establishment. She did not intend to have her quest of a good time restricted by marriage. She therefore refused both William Brown, drapery salesman, and Kewick Dell, buyer. The latter retaliated by discharging her. For seven days miserably confronted Jacqueline, Frinkips, her 100-I shot, was missing at the finish of the Warwickshire Handicap; none seemed to desire her services. Then Old Dobbin died and left her 500 pounds to repay her for her many kindnesses. Jacqueline revived her dreams of living as a lady, enjoying luxury, and in her dingy room at Mrs. Hubbard's rooming house, makes her plans.

Chapter 6 CUPID GAINS AN ALLY

THERE was a wheezing outside Jacqueline's door and she thought the ball valve in the cistern—which was her nearest neighbor—had got stuck again. But it was Mrs. Hubbard who announced a visitor.

It was Dorothy Dalton, one of the models from Byrums, a beautiful, blue-eyes, fair-haired girl with a Junoesque figure.

She was wheezing a little like the landlady, and she sank on Jacqueline's bed to get her breath back.

"My dear—that woman," she gasped. "What a hole! You poor girl!"

Whereupon she took Jacqueline in her arms and gave her a bear-hug.

Jacqueline was a mere wispy compared with the stately Dorothy; but Dorothy, although several years older as well as larger, worshipped her. Jacqueline had sent Dorothy her address the day before.

"Your poor old darling," murmured the passionate Dorothy. "Why didn't you let me know where you were before? I've been breaking my heart about it. What a time you must be having."

"It's not so bad," said Jacqueline. "I'm enjoying life. I've come into a fortune."

"You look like it," returned Dorothy, and giggled a little hysterically. Jacqueline could see that there was something wrong with her, and waited for confidences.

"You always were plucky," murmured Dorothy. "I suppose if you came and ate humble pie out of Papa Dell's hand, he'd take you back."

"I might have to some day," replied Jacqueline thoughtfully; "but I'm going to see a little bit of life first."

"I should think you ought to be able to get a job most anywhere with your figure."

"You know I haven't got any figure at all, Dorothy."

"Well, that's just the sort of figure that's wanted now," lamented Miss Dalton.

She began to sniff and produced a pocket handkerchief. Then, without further warning, she burst into tears. Jacqueline had been waiting for this. She knew the signs. Dorothy cried easily and precisely, and her tears did not always indicate fundamental tragedy. Homely red faces were usually sufficient to quench the flow.

"Have a choc, old thing," suggested Jacqueline.

"I haven't," sobbed Dorothy. "What's the matter? Disgust?"

"Two meals a day," sniffed Dorothy, "and little ones at that. If only I knew how hungry I am, dear! I could eat horse, and as a choc, I've been dying for one a week. My number's up, old thing. I've dropped on my knees and begged around the big girl. Papa Dell been bullying you?"

"It's not his fault, I suppose. I've been pretty patient up to now; I've gained three pounds in the fortnight."

"Today Dell told me that I can't get 10 pounds off in the fortnight I shall have to go."

"The beast!" said Jacqueline. "Of course, I can't do it, old thing. If I eat an egg now, I put on a pound."

"Why don't you go and see a doctor?" suggested Jacqueline.

"I've been, and it's no good," added as an afterthought. "Dell says you're the only reasonable fella in the shop; so there's a tip for you if you want your job back."

"I don't," replied Jacqueline. "It's as bad as that you might well have a choc."

Dorothy had one, and soon comforted by it. A second one she ped her tears, and a third one to some extent her belief in Jacqueline.

"Don't it a world?" she murmured. "I wish I had enough to eat, and a little flat of my own, and get as fat as I liked, without asking anybody. I'd put up with husband to get the flat and a baby."

Jacqueline's eyes were suddenly misty, and she forced chocolates. Dorothy, who had now forgotten dieting and was munching absently.

"That reminds me, dear," Dorothy went on. "I gave your address to Mr. Brown. You know Brown in the drapery—of course you do I hope you don't mind."

"Er—no, I don't mind," answered Jacqueline. "Did he ask you for it?"

"Yes, he's mighty anxious to see you. If I'm not mistaken he'll be coming round now, and don't be wild, pet—he's got a desperate look in his eyes, and I think he means business. Some girls have all the luck."

Jacqueline observed her seriously. "Are you under the impression that there is anything between Mr. Brown and me?"

"I don't know," said Dorothy. "You've been going out with him, but lately."

"That's nothing," Jacqueline said. "Anyway I'm ready to bet that Mr. Brown is going to ask you to marry him."

"He has asked me. I refused him."

"Have another choc," said Jacqueline. "Now tell me why you think I must be mad to have refused Mr. Brown."

"Well, he's a good fellow, Jacqueline. He's straight and honest and steady. He saves money too; as his job's sure, as jobs go. He'd take good care of you."

"Don't worry, Dorothy," said Jacqueline. "I'm going to take care of myself without his help. Now tell me something: Am I making a mistake, or did you go out with Mr. Brown a bit, some time ago?"

"Yes," replied Dorothy, hanging her head. "He used to go out with me quite a bit once."

"Why did he give you up?"

"Don't know," said Dorothy. "I just gave it up. Suppose I got a fat. You see he started seeing this in you, and perhaps that gave him the slim idea. I'm not jealous, or anything. Men are like that. You have to take 'em as they come."

"You're an angel, Dorothy. You really like Mr. Brown?"

"I like him fine," sighed Dorothy. "Would you marry him if he asked you?"

"Wouldn't I just?" she murmured. "But he won't ask me, my dear, that's that."

But Jacqueline had underrated Mr. Brown's determination as she learns Thursday.

EIGHT HOURS OF SLEEP BEST BEAUTY TREATMENT KNOWN

Screen Star With Two Daughters in College Gives Recipe for Youth

BY JESSIE HENDERSON
Copyright 1930 by Cons. Press
Hollywood—Many stars have recipes on how to keep young but Irene Rich has one which cannot go wrong. With two daughters in college, Irene Rich is the youngest matron of her years in Hollywood. Her years are still much less than forty, and she still looks less than thirty. You asked how come. Milk bath? Steaming in rose leaves? An ancient Babylonian formula?
"Eight hours' sleep a night," replied Irene Rich instantly, "and nine if possible."
A few years ago, you saw Irene Rich as the suppressed wife of the screen. She wore drab clothes, she did her hair in a drab style. She was always being deserted or gyped by the screen character to whom she played the role of spouse. All of a sudden she declined to be the suppressed wife any more. She got a snappy haircut, acquired snappy clothes, declined mousey roles, and is often seen in pictures as the beautiful young wife of whatever character Will Rogers happens to be playing.
It was an absolute metamorphosis in which the haircut and the clothes were important items. Yet these alone do not account for the fact that, Irene Rich looks years younger.

"The big reason why some actresses are young and beautiful in one picture but not so young and not so beautiful in the next," she said, "is the difference between the amount of sleep they've had while those pictures were in the making. Between pictures, I rush around watching up on social engagements. Consequently, every vacation wears me out completely.
"But when I'm making a picture, I never let anything interfere with eight straight hours of sleep. The result is that I'm rested only when I'm at work on a picture. Nothing in the world is so prettying as rest, and nothing in the world so aging as weariness. Worry, like weariness, brings lines to the youngest face; but if your body and brain are rested by a nightly eight hours' sleep, you can form the habit, despite normal worries—you'll be surprised how many of your worries disappear as your nerves grow rested.
"Eight hours' sleep, at the very least. It will make you look young at ninety. Without it, I doubt if you get to be ninety. It's the real fountain of youth, taking years from your face and adding to your life."

ATTORNEY AGREES TO DEFEND NEGRO SUSPECT

Beaumont, Texas.—(AP)—R. J. Jernigan, Port Arthur attorney, has announced that he will defend Ramey Williams, Negro accused of attacking several Port Arthur women and thrice saved by peace officers from threatening mobs.
Jernigan, who was fined $250 and remanded to jail Monday by Judge R. L. Murray for refusal to accept appointment as defense council, later agreed to assume charge of the defense.
Sheriff W. W. Covington twice dispersed mobs seeking to lynch Williams, who was brought to Beaumont for safekeeping after a mob had stormed the Port Arthur jail in which he was confined.

ALFA GRASS PULP IS GAINING PLACE IN PAPER MARKET

Coarse Grass Once Scorned
Now Yields Good Grade of Newsprint

Casablanca, Morocco — (AP) — Alfa, a coarse grass once scorned here, has become the pride of France's colony in Morocco and may bid for the world's market in paper pulp when the forests of the north have been depleted.

It yields a good grade of newsprint. It is known also as "esparto grass" and Spain has long used it for making cordage baskets and sandals.

Before the war some of the Moroccan alfa was taken by British manufacturers who shipped it to England, made it into paper, and then sold their product in France at a good profit. Later, however, the colonial government has taken steps for its distribution direct to French pulp mills.

Thousands of tons are now sent each month to Avignon, France, where two large pulp mills are in operation and another is under construction.

The young sultan of Morocco, Sidi-Mohammed the Third, has shown a deep interest in this effort, believing that alfa is destined to become the chief export of his domain.

Paper being one of the few commodities which has not suffered from over-production, the demand for alfa is still ahead of the supply. But production is being increased and as the grass requires little care after planting, its cultivation is well fitted to the temperament of the native farm workers.

WIFE'S FALSE TEETH SAVE MAN FROM JAIL

Kenosha — (AP) — Ludwig Meier, 42, farmer, Tuesday escaped jail by his wife's teeth. Mrs. Meier told District Attorney Morris Barnett her husband had her false teeth to keep her from going out. Meier disclosed the hiding place after Barnett threatened to jail him unless he returned the teeth.

How To Shop

By William E. Baldwin

The number of real antiques in furniture naturally diminishes from year to year through fires, breakage, etc. The appetite for other persons' heirlooms just as steadily increases. The ingenious answer to the resulting problem is to apply modern methods of mass production to the antique business. Without this faking many a quaint roadside shop would go out of business and many a country auction would never be held.

The furniture industry is borrowing heavily from the old masters of cabinet designs through copies of their most famous designs. Where these reproductions are honestly labeled and are sold at fair prices, they have a legitimate place in the furniture market, but they can best be bought from the reliable firms in the towns and cities.

The intelligent shopper will pay current prices for her furniture and leave the field of antiques to the expert collectors.

Come and Celebrate July 4th at Valley Queen, 12 Corn.

Hers to Command

An army to set her table

When the housewife tells A & P her needs—by her purchases in its stores—an army of men, trained to obey her will, stands at command.

And because great numbers of women who like good things and good values trade in A & P stores, the order of one housewife becomes the order of many. A vast association of housewives, A & P's customers, thus grows out of a single aim—good food at least cost.

The whole A & P army is at their command, and the buying of all these housewives—massed to serve each—gives to all the pick of every crop, of every food.

Growers and manufacturers know that only their best products at fair prices will satisfy this large body of consumers. In return, these industries are assured of regular sale of their goods.

So the housewife who shops at A & P is certain of the best; while her steady, thrifty buying supports honest food industries in every part of the country.

In shopping to her own advantage, she is helping the food producer.
